At Least 40 Reds Killed

Marines Battle Viet Cong Units Near North Border

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Three companies of U.S. Marines lifted into action by helicopter battled a Viet Cong main-force unit today 55 miles from the North Viet Nam border.

The fight still raged at nightfall after more than six hours of shooting. A Marine spokesman at Da Nang said 40 Communists were killed, against light Leatherneck losses. The Marines also captured 40 weapons, including one crew-served piece of equipment.

The new outbreak of fighting in the northernmost province followed a fierce action before dawn in which 470 South Vietnamese infantry troops and militiamen with the help of fighter-bombers and artillery turned back a stiff attack by a Communist force twice their number on a refugee settlement area 75 miles northeast of Saigon.

Only 17 miles from the 17th-Parallel frontier with the Communist North, battalions of government troops on a weeklong hunt for the Reds in Quang Tri Province were reported in heavy fighting. A government spokesman said the South Vietnamese soldiers were encircling 200 Viet Cong, elements of two Communist battalions they had hit earlier.

Another 54 Viet Cong were killed in the day's fighting, bringing the total Communist dead since last Tuesday to 344, the spokesman said. The U.S. 7th Fleet has supported the government operations with coastal shelling.

The Marines called for artillery and air strikes after they landed on a peninsula about six miles southeast of the Marine enclave at Phu Bai near the old imperial capital of Hue, 400 miles northeast of Saigon. The enemy was described as a hard-core force of about 400 troops.

The Marines are part of a task force, including a battalion of Vietnamese troops, that has been hunting the Viet Cong since Friday.

An estimated 900 to 1,000 Viet Cong struck from three directions at 1:15 a.m. against the "new life" hamlet of Vo Xu, in coastal Binh Tuy Province. Prongs simultaneously hit a 120-man militia post and 350-man infantry battalion, both part of the village's defenses.

It was the first regimental-size attack by the Communists against a government resettlement area in months. They used mortars and 50-caliber machine guns, setting huts aflame and killing an undetermined number of refugees.

The Viet Cong charged the hamlet three time. Each time they were hurled back as well-placed air strikes and artillery rounds supported the beleaguered defenders. A government spokesman said at least 20 Viet Cong were killed and probably many more fell in the bombardment. Government casualties were described as moderate.

The area was taken back from the Viet Cong last fall by the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade. The Vietnamese 10th Division has been responsible for its defense since November.

The Reds attacked the hamlet after knocking out a company of American paratrooper in a six-hour fight 20 miles north of Saigon over the weekend. Fire from other guerrillas drove a ship aground temporarily in the Saigon River Sunday.

South Vietnamese troops carried the brunt of the war on the ground in the past 24 hours of operations. A government spokesman said 33 more Viet Cong were killed and 18 weapons captured in a three-hour fight in northernmost Quang Tri Province, where several Vietnamese battalions have been hunting the Reds for a week.

Since last Tuesday 264 Viet Cong have been killed and 55 weapons captured in fighting along the coast only a few miles south of the 17th Parallel frontier with North Viet Nam, the spokesman said. The U.S. 7th Fleet has supported the government operations with coastal shelling.

City Officers Nab 2 Men In Attempted Safe Entry

Unarmed Suspects Found By Police In Act Of Burglary

Two suspects, apprehended by fast police work while battering a safe at the Veterans of Foreign Wars home at Ravine and Blakeley Sts. early this morning, were scheduled to be arraigned this afternoon as police continue their investigation into the burglary.

Police Lt. William E. McDaniel said the suspects—Louis Ancrile, 23, and Nick Tepevich, 38, both of Midland, will be arraigned before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff at 1 p. m. on charges of breaking and entering.

He was conferring this morning with James D. Primm of Salem, assistant Columbiana County prosecutor, who arrived at the post home about 10:30 a. m.

The alertness of a retired fireman, who is custodian at Post 66, and the fast response of the police were credited with nabbing the men while they were working on the safe in the office near the main entrance.

Harry Price, post commander, said "a sizeable amount" of cash representing Saturday and Sunday receipts had been put in the safe. Price had closed the home at about 2:20 a. m.

Sheridan Pollock, the retired fireman who is custodian at the home, told officers he arrived at the front door about 5:55 a.m. to go to work when he heard a thumping noise.

Pollock checked the area outside the home but saw no strange cars although the thumping noise continued. The custodian then crossed the street to a nearby home and called police.

Lt. McDaniel and Patrolmen Howard Frontz and Ronald Brookes were at the scene in a minute. Lt. McDaniel went to a door at the end of the hallway from the office where he could see through glass paneling while Pollock opened the main door for the two police officers.

Entering the foyer with drawn guns, the officers and Pollock started down the hallway when the retired firemen noticed the office door was slightly ajar.

"That door should be closed tight," he whispered to Frontz and Brookes.

Apparently hearing the door open, the suspects had momentarily halted their attempt to pry open the inner door with a wedge since the officers said they heard no sounds coming from the small room.

Frontz kicked open the office door and it struck something solid and started to rebound, he said.

He grabbed the door and yelled, "Come on out of there."

Only one suspect walked out but Patrolman Brookes spotted the other hiding behind the door and called for him to come out. Meanwhile, Pollock had unlocked the rear door for McDaniel to enter.

The officers lined up the sus-

U.S. Orbits New Weather Station

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — ESSA 2, a mechanical meteorologist designed to snap and transmit cloud and storm pattern photos almost in the twinkling of its camera eyes, soared into orbit today to complete the world's first operational space weather reporting network.

Together with the earlier ESSA 1, the new weather watcher will provide a combination of global coverage every day and instant pictures to local forecasters in 22 nations.

Dubbed "everyman's satellite" because of its potential usefulness to all countries, the new weather observatory thundered away from Cape Kennedy right on schedule at 8:58 a.m. (EST) atop a Douglas Delata rocket that drilled it into orbit about 850 miles above the earth.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced the success of the flight and officially named the satellite ESSA 2, for environmental survey satellite. Ground stations planned to activate its cameras on Wednesday, after first checking out all payload systems.

Each of the two cameras is to take and transmit a picture every six minutes.

ESSA 1, launched Feb. 3, also carries two cameras which photograph all areas of the globe at least once every day, storing the pictures on board until the payload is over one of two receiving stations in the United States.

These pictures are distributed to interested weather agencies around the world.

The instant pictures can be used to improve local weather forecasts, to issue warnings of severe weather and to help select the safest routes for aircraft in flight and ships at sea.

APT receiving sets cost up to $30,000. But some amateurs have put workable sets together for as low as $600.

Some television stations in the United States plan to feed ESSA 2 pictures directly onto home screens during weather programs.

A station can receive pictures from the satellite whenever it is within a range of 2,100 miles. On each pass, ESSA 2 can relay two or three pictures, each showing weather patterns over an area of four million square miles.

Special Session Starts

Gov. Scranton Requests Speedy Action On 8 Bills

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton today laid before a special session of the General Assembly eight proposals "needed to deal with problems that are critical in nature."

He called on the politically divided legislature to act speedily because "all of the items that have been included in this call for a special session have clear and definite solutions."

Reminding the legislature that most of the eight subjects were left unaccomplished at the tumultuous 1965 session, the governor said in a special message delivered by messenger to both houses:

"There can be no excuse for a prolonged special session. The people of Pennsylvania want results, and will hardly excuse failure or delay in action."

In a prelude, the governor noted that this will be the fifth special session since the legislature started annual sessions in 1960 — with meetings in even-numbered years limited to fiscal matters.

Expressing hope that the constitution would be amended to permit consideration of general subjects every year, the governor said:

"If the legislature must in any event be in Harrisburg, the taxpayers have the right to expect that both it and the governor will turn their attention to problems of a pressing nature. . .

"The subjects that I place before you today all meet this test. All are matters that cannot wisely be permitted to hang fire for another year."

The subjects are: Additional state policemen, use of retired judges to cut court backlogs, bituminous mine subsidence protection for property owners, consumer protection, interstate mine cooperation, a school district reorganization moratorium, community college construction and state employe retirement improvements.

2 Gunmen Rob Clerk At Beaver Falls Hotel

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (AP) — Two thugs took $458 at gunpoint early today from a clerk at the Brodhead Hotel in this Beaver County town.

Later in nearby Aliquippa, police said two men forced an attendant at the Keystone Service Station to turn over $78 in cash. They also took a revolver.

$7,500 Blaze Hits Chester District Home

Housewife Finds Fire Touched Off By Faulty Motor

Damage was estimated at $7,500 after fire Sunday afternoon struck the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Powers of Route 30, near Chester.

Chief George McDole of the Lawrenceville volunteer department said the blaze originated in the basement. It was discovered by Mrs. Powers when she returned home about 5:30. Her husband and children were not at home at the time.

Eleven Lawrenceville firemen, responding with an emergency pumper, found the blaze out of control and called on the Chester department for assistance. Ten men and an additional pumper were sent.

The fire was blamed on a faulty motor at the rear of a food freezer. It spread from the basement through the upper two floors of the structure.

The firemen remained on the scene for about three hours. The house and its contents were reported covered by insurance.

Earlier in the afternoon, Lawrenceville firemen answered a call to a reported fire in a trailer court. Upon arriving at the Midway Trailer Park on the Waterford Park Rd., they learned that the fire was at Harpold's Trailer Court on Route 2, near the Hilltop Drive-in Theatre.

An inspection of the latter site, however, revealed that the fire had been extinguished and that no damage resulted. The call was received about 2:40.

Israeli Tries 1-Man Peace Bid In Egypt

CAIRO (AP)—An Israeli ex-fighter pilot made a forced landing in his 40-year-old plane today at Port Said — and stepped out to announce he is making a one-man peace mission to Egypt.

Airport authorities identified him as Abraham Nathan, 38, who came down when his plane ran out of fuel.

Authorities said Nathan had requested a safe landing at Port Said or Cairo, and had repeatedly explained his peace mission over his radio. Gov. Mohamed Saeef Talal of Port Said met Nathan at the airport and said he would arrange to turn him over to Cairo authorities, who would decide what to do with him.

Egypt considers itself in a state of war with Israel.

He claimed he carried a petition with 100,000 signatures in support of his peace campaign.

March Arrival Slated To Be Cloudy, Cool

March may arrive Tuesday like a lamb in lion's clothing.

The forecaster said tomorrow's weather will be marked by a cloudy and cool trend, but still it will be an improvement over today.

The weather is due to turn cooler tonight, with rain changing to snow flurries. The low temperature will be 28-34 degrees, the weatherman said.

The mercury hit 33 at 5 a. m. in the downtown area. It was 30 at the same time in the suburbs.

U.S. Urges OAS Powers Be Widened

Committee Starts Review Of Changes For Latin Council

PANAMA (AP) — A U.S. proposal to give broad new powers to the Council of the Organization of American States to settle disputes appears headed for tough sledding in a special 20-nation committee which opens a four-week meeting here today.

The committee is to draw up reforms to the OAS Charter to revitalize the inter-American system's political, economic and cultural action.

The draft amendments will be taken up by a special meeting of inter-American foreign ministers to be held in Buenos Aires in July.

The United States sent the committee a series of amendments Sunday to empower the presently powerless OAS Council to take up disputes between member states.

A dispute could be put before the council by one of the nations involved or by any member of the OAS. The council could recommend provisional measures to prevent aggravation of a dispute, conduct fact-finding investigations in the territory of nations which agreed to that, and recommend procedures for settling the dispute.

Mrs. Gandhi Sets Trip To U.S. March 27-31

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Indra Gandhi will leave March 27 for a four-day visit to the United States, Foreign Minister Swaran Singh told Parliament today.

President Johnson invited Mrs. Gandhi to confer with him after she succeeded the late Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri. Shastri had been scheduled to visit Washington in early February but he died on Jan. 10.

2 Astronauts Die In Plane's Crash

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — Astronauts Elliot M. See Jr. and Charles A. Bassett II, the primary crew for the Gemini 9 space flight scheduled this summer, were killed today in a St. Louis plane crash.

The identifications were announced at the Manned Spacecraft Center, the training base for astronauts, about an hour and a half after the astronauts' T38 jet trainer crashed while making an instrument landing in a light fog at the McDonnell Aircraft Corp. plant.

McDonnell builds the Gemini spacecraft. Astronauts assigned to the two-man space flight spend considerable time in St. Louis for training purposes.

See, 38, a civilian, was selected in the second group of astronauts selected in 1962. A native of Dallas, Tex., he was a Navy pilot from 1953 through 1956.

Bassett, 34, an Air Force captain, was a native of Dayton, Ohio, but was a graduate of Texas Technological College at Lubbock. He was in the third group of astronauts named in 1963.

In State Line 'Road Block'

Beaver Officials Check On Youngsters' Drinking

District Atty. Robert J. Masters of Beaver County Sunday launched an unprecedented crackdown on liquor violations by minors.

Beaver County detectives, State Police and agents of the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board staged a four-hour road check along Route 30 in Greene Township about a mile and a half from the West Virginia state line.

Masters commented: "The spot check yesterday was only the first in a series which we will make in an effort to get to the root of this problem. Our investigation uncovered evidence that the practice of illegal purchase, transport and consumption of alcoholic beverages by minors is widespread, and as a result we will accelerate efforts to enforce the liquor laws.

"Agents of the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board and personnel of the Pennsylvania State Police has been placed at our disposal and will be used regularly in a concentrated effort to rid Beaver County of this menace."

Commenting on Sunday's check, Masters added: "It is quite clear that the states of Ohio and West Virginia must be persuaded to tighten enforcement of the beverage laws near our state lines. This office intends to ask the respective states to take steps to this effect.

"The road check yesterday revealed a great amount of teenage participation in illegal beverage traffic. Investigators also noted large quantities of freshly - dumped beverage containers just over the West Virginia line, indicating that the area is heavily used by the young for illegal drinking."

"This office will continue a vigorous effort to stamp out the menace of illegal liquor traffic on the part of minors and prosecution will follow," Masters said.

Talks Begin On Europe's Market Role

Leaders Seek Way To Break Barriers Facing Trade Ties

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Europe's Common Market meets today in its first full session in nearly eight months, looking for a way to get going again on the Kennedy round of talks for breaking down barriers to international trade.

The Kennedy Round derives its name from the Trade Expansion Act which the late President John F. Kennedy put through in 1962. It seeks to reduce customs duties by half. If it succeeds, even in part, the boost to American exports could help end the drain on American gold reserves.

The scheduled two-day Common Market session will be held as usual behind closed doors. It will be attended by top Cabinet members from the six member-countries — France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

French President Charles de Gaulle blackballed Britain when it tried to join three years ago. Now there is a new interest in bringing in Britain and other West European countries.

Steelworkers Launch South Viet Milk Drive

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The United Steelworkers Union is starting a drive among its locals to buy milk for children in South Viet Nam.

Union Secretary-Treasurer Walter J. Burke, in announcing the program over the weekend, said milk is needed in South Viet Nam to help combat diseases connected with malnutrition.

Burke said the milk will be distributed by the Confederation of Vietnamese Workers, the equivalent to the AFL-CIO in the United States.

In State Line 'Road Block'

Beaver Officials Check On Youngsters' Drinking

District Atty. Robert J. Masters of Beaver County Sunday launched an unprecedented crackdown on liquor violations by minors.

Beaver County detectives, State Police and agents of the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board staged a four-hour road check along Route 30 in Greene Township about a mile and a half from the West Virginia state line.

Masters commented: "The spot check yesterday was only the first in a series which we will make in an effort to get to the root of this problem. Our investigation uncovered evidence that the practice of illegal purchase, transport and consumption of alcoholic beverages by minors is widespread, and as a result we will accelerate efforts to enforce the liquor laws.

"Agents of the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board and personnel of the Pennsylvania State Police has been placed at our disposal and will be used regularly in a concentrated effort to rid Beaver County of this menace."

Commenting on Sunday's check, Masters added: "It is quite clear that the states of Ohio and West Virginia must be persuaded to tighten enforcement of the beverage laws near our state lines. This office intends to ask the respective states to take steps to this effect.

"The road check yesterday revealed a great amount of teenage participation in illegal beverage traffic. Investigators also noted large quantities of freshly - dumped beverage containers just over the West Virginia line, indicating that the area is heavily used by the young for illegal drinking."

"This office will continue a vigorous effort to stamp out the menace of illegal liquor traffic on the part of minors and prosecution will follow," Masters said.

Talks Begin On Europe's Market Role

Leaders Seek Way To Break Barriers Facing Trade Ties

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Europe's Common Market meets today in its first full session in nearly eight months, looking for a way to get going again on the Kennedy round of talks for breaking down barriers to international trade.

The Kennedy Round derives its name from the Trade Expansion Act which the late President John F. Kennedy put through in 1962. It seeks to reduce customs duties by half. If it succeeds, even in part, the boost to American exports could help end the drain on American gold reserves.

The scheduled two-day Common Market session will be held as usual behind closed doors. It will be attended by top Cabinet members from the six member countries — France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

French President Charles de Gaulle blackballed Britain when it tried to join three years ago. Now there is a new interest in bringing in Britain and other West European countries.

Steelworkers Launch South Viet Milk Drive

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The United Steelworkers Union is starting a drive among its locals to buy milk for children in South Viet Nam.

Union Secretary-Treasurer Walter J. Burke, in announcing the program over the weekend, said milk is needed in South Viet Nam to help combat diseases connected with malnutrition.

Burke said the milk will be distributed by the Confederation of Vietnamese Workers, the equivalent to the AFL-CIO in the United States.

Crash Demolishes 2 Autos, Damages 4 On Lisbon Street

LISBON — Two autos were demolished and damages to four others totaled $775 in a freak accident Sunday in Lisbon, reportedly caused when a Lisbon area woman fell asleep at the wheel of her auto.

Mrs. Mary Thelma Zinz, 58, of Lisbon R. D. 4 received bruised knees and ribs at 6:10 Sunday when she fell asleep while driving east on W. Lincoln Way in a 1955 sedan. After treatment by a private physician, she was charged by Lisbon police with reckless operation of a motor vehicle. She was cited by Capt. John Varner.

Her car went left of center and traveled out of control for over 200 feet, striking a westbound 1965 station wagon driven by William Seidner, 44, of 135 Green St., and then proceeded out of control for another 200 feet.

The Zinz car then went over the curbing on the north side of Lincoln Way, knocking down a sign in front of the driver's license examination center, glancing off the stone steps. It continued east and grazed a telephone pole at the Lincoln Way-Beaver St. intresection.

After crossing the intersection, her car hit the front end of a westbound 1959 sedan driven by James Howard, 69, of 324 Market St., then crossed over to the south side of Lincoln Way, hitting the rear of a 1961 sedan owned by Albert Clutter of 209½ Ohio Ave., East Liverpool.

Police said Howard was stopped for the traffic light. Mrs. Zinz' auto caused the Howard vehicle to be knocked backward 37 feet into a 1960 sedan parked in front of the Crosser Diner.

After colliding with Howard's vehicle, Mrs. Zinz then hit a parked station wagon owned by Chester Kennedy of 268 W. Washington St., causing the Kennedy vehicle to bounce forward.

The autos belonging to Mrs. Zinz and Howard are considered to be total losses. Police said the two cars were damaged beyond repair. They estimated damage of $500 to Seidner's car, $175 to Kennedy's station wagon, $50 to the Clutter, and $50 to the 1960 sedan parked in front of the Crosser Diner, owned by Curt Hageman of Beaver.

There were no persons in the parked vehicles.

In an accident Sunday noon, Lisbon police said cars driven by Robert F. Mix, 17, of 111 S. Green St., and Vernon E. Mangus, 40, of Homeworth, collided in an alley near W. Lincoln Way. Police said Mix told them his foot slipped off the brake and his car hit the rear of the Mangus auto. Damage was minor, it was reported.

Weekend Collisions

Local Police Cite Pair In Mishap

Motorists from Wellsville and Lisbon were cited and three of four cars involved in two Sunday morning crashes were listed by city police as possible total losses.

A 1956 sedan driven by Arthur Reed Crissman, 28, of Pleasant Valley Rd., Wellsville, was demolished when it was struck by an eastbound car driven by Raymond E. Duffield, 24, of 139 Kountz Ave., Wellsville, in a collision at 7 a. m. yesterday at Pennsylvania Ave. and Boyce St.

Crissman said he was headed west and had just pulled away from the traffic signal when he saw Duffield's car coming at him. He said he swerved to the right but was unable to get out of the path of the other auto.

Duffield told police he apparently dozed while traveling east about 30 miles an hour.

"The next thing Duffield knew his car had gone left of center and struck the other auto," police reported.

Charged with driving left of center, Duffield pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff this morning and was fined $15 and costs.

—:—

MARY MARTHA Shamp, 30, of 133 E. High St., Lisbon, was cited for failing to keep her auto to the right of the center line after her 1955 sedan veered to the left on E. 3rd St. and hit a parked auto.

Mrs. Shamp told police she was following another car east at a speed of 55 to 60 miles an hour when the other driver suddenly applied his brakes. The Lisbon woman said she braked, but the left front wheel locked and caused her to lose control and she struck the parked auto of Pearl Long, 311½ W. 3rd St.

The entire front end of the Shamp auto was damaged and it was listed as a possible total loss. The front end and both front sides of the Long auto were damaged heavily and the 1956 auto is a total loss, police said.

Mrs. Shamp drew a fine of $25 and costs from Judge Chertoff after pleading guilty.

BARBARA PHELPS, 26, of 2511 St. Clair Ave. told police her car was damaged by a hit - skip driver while parked on E. 5th St. early Saturday night. The woman told police she found the bumper guard on her convertible lying alongside the car.

A mishap shortly after noon Saturday on E. 5th St. near Washington St. involved westbound autos driven by Ira G. Davis, 50, of 1014 Bradshaw Ave. and Mary C. Roslund of Park Blvd.

Davis told officers he was in the right lane and the woman crossed from the left lane and struck his car. Mrs. Roslund said she had eased past another motorist who was parking and misjudged the space and scratched the bumper of the Davis car.

Gas Company Office At Lisbon To Suspend

LISBON — The Columbia Gas Co. of Ohio branch office at 131 E. Lincoln Way will close operations this afternoon.

Lisbon patrons of the gas company, effective Tuesday, will begin paying their bills at two banks here — the Firestone Bank and the Farmer's National Bank, both of which will act as collection agencies for the company.

The clerk at the local office, Miss Candy Artor of Lisbon, is being transferred to work at gas company offices in Minerva and Columbiana. The serviceman here, John W. (Bill) Peterson, also of Lisbon, will be working out of the Salem office.

William Hochradel of the Salem office announced the decision to close the office to a Council meeting in January.

Beaver Creek Added To 'Wild Rivers' Plan

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources today asked support of an amendment introduced by Sen. Frank J. Lausche that would add Beaver Creek and the Little Miami River to the so - called "Wild Rivers Act" now before Congress.

Fred E. Morr, director of the department, said widespread support already has been given by conservationists, sportsmen's groups and others.

He said the two streams "constitute a significant phase of our recreation resource development program objectives and would complement existing state plans."

Sheppard Set To Seek New Murder Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Samuel Sheppard put before the Supreme Court today his claim that newspaper publicity prevented him from getting a fair trial in the 1954 slaying of his first wife.

Through arguments by his counsel, the former Cleveland, Ohio, osteopath hopes to win a new trial with additional contentions. One is that evidence presented against him 12 years ago was not sufficient to sustain a conviction.

The conviction was for murder in the second degree and he was given a life sentence. He was released under a habeas corpus order after serving 10 years.

In the latest legal move in Ohio, the U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati rejected Sheppard's contention that he didn't get a fair trial. But it permited him to remain at liberty on bail pending outcome of his appeal to the highest tribunal.

Sheppard's first wife, Marilyn, was pregnant when she was beaten to death. Sheppard has always claimed that a bushy-haired intruder killed her. In 1964 he married a German-born divorcee with whom he had carried on a correpondence while in prison.

Sheppard's lawyer, F. Lee Bailey of Boston, asked in a preliminary brief submitted to the Supreme Court that the justices rule on 11 questions. The first was whether pretrial publicity so prejudiced the community that no fair and impartial jury could have been impaneled.

Ohio Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe said in his preliminary brief, "The facts of this case do not warrant a presumption of community prejudice inherent in the nature of the pretrial publicity, nor do they justify a finding of actual juror prejudice."

Weekend Collisions

Local Police Cite Pair In Mishap

Motorists from Wellsville and Lisbon were cited and three of four cars involved in two Sunday morning crashes were listed by city police as possible total losses.

A 1956 sedan driven by Arthur Reed Crissman, 28, of Pleasant Valley Rd., Wellsville, was demolished when it was struck by an eastbound car driven by Raymond E. Duffield, 24, of 139 Kountz Ave., Wellsville, in a collision at 7 a. m. yesterday at Pennsylvania Ave. and Boyce St.

Crissman said he was headed west and had just pulled away from the traffic signal when he saw Duffield's car coming at him. He said he swerved to the right but was unable to get out of the path of the other auto.

Duffield told police he apparently dozed while traveling east about 30 miles an hour.

"The next thing Duffield knew his car had gone left of center and struck the other auto," police reported.

Charged with driving left of center, Duffield pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff this morning and was fined $15 and costs.

—:—

MARY MARTHA Shamp, 30, of 133 E. High St., Lisbon, was cited for failing to keep her auto to the right of the center line after her 1955 sedan veered to the left on E. 3rd St. and hit a parked auto.

Mrs. Shamp told police she was following another car east at a speed of 55 to 60 miles an hour when the other driver suddenly applied his brakes. The Lisbon woman said she braked, but the left front wheel locked and caused her to lose control and she struck the parked auto of Pearl Long, 311½ W. 3rd St.

The entire front end of the Shamp auto was damaged and it was listed as a possible total loss. The front end and both front sides of the Long auto were damaged heavily and the 1956 auto is a total loss, police said.

Mrs. Shamp drew a fine of $25 and costs from Judge Chertoff after pleading guilty.

BARBARA PHELPS, 26, of 2511 St. Clair Ave. told police her car was damaged by a hit - skip driver while parked on E. 5th St. early Saturday night. The woman told police she found the bumper guard on her convertible lying alongside the car.

A mishap shortly after noon Saturday on E. 5th St. near Washington St. involved westbound autos driven by Ira G. Davis, 50, of 1014 Bradshaw Ave. and Mary C. Roslund of Park Blvd.

Davis told officers he was in the right lane and the woman crossed from the left lane and struck his car. Mrs. Roslund said she had eased past another motorist who was parking and misjudged the space and scratched the bumper of the Davis car.

Gas Company Office At Lisbon To Suspend

LISBON — The Columbia Gas Co. of Ohio branch office at 131 E. Lincoln Way will close operations this afternoon.

Lisbon patrons of the gas company, effective Tuesday, will begin paying their bills at two banks here — the Firestone Bank and the Farmer's National Bank, both of which will act as collection agencies for the company.

The clerk at the local office, Miss Candy Artor of Lisbon, is being transferred to work at gas company offices in Minerva and Columbiana. The serviceman here, John W. (Bill) Peterson, also of Lisbon, will be working out of the Salem office.

William Hochradel of the Salem office announced the decision to close the office to a Council meeting in January.

Beaver Creek Added To 'Wild Rivers' Plan

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources today asked support of an amendment introduced by Sen. Frank J. Lausche that would add Beaver Creek and the Little Miami River to the so - called "Wild Rivers Act" now before Congress.

Fred E. Morr, director of the department, said widespread support already has been given by conservationists, sportsmen's groups and others.

He said the two streams "constitute a significant phase of our recreation resource development program objectives and would complement existing state plans."

Sheppard Set To Seek New Murder Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Samuel Sheppard put before the Supreme Court today his claim that newspaper publicity prevented him from getting a fair trial in the 1954 slaying of his first wife.

Through arguments by his counsel, the former Cleveland, Ohio, osteopath hopes to win a new trial with additional contentions. One is that evidence presented against him 12 years ago was not sufficient to sustain a conviction.

The conviction was for murder in the second degree and he was given a life sentence. He was released under a habeas corpus order after serving 10 years.

In the latest legal move in Ohio, the U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati rejected Sheppard's contention that he didn't get a fair trial. But it permited him to remain at liberty on bail pending outcome of his appeal to the highest tribunal.

Sheppard's first wife, Marilyn, was pregnant when she was beaten to death. Sheppard has always claimed that a bushy-haired intruder killed her. In 1964 he married a German-born divorcee with whom he had carried on a correpondence while in prison.

Sheppard's lawyer, F. Lee Bailey of Boston, asked in a preliminary brief submitted to the Supreme Court that the justices rule on 11 questions. The first was whether pretrial publicity so prejudiced the community that no fair and impartial jury could have been impaneled.

Ohio Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe said in his preliminary brief, "The facts of this case do not warrant a presumption of community prejudice inherent in the nature of the pretrial publicity, nor do they justify a finding of actual juror prejudice."

EAST LIVERPOOL REVIEW

A Dependable Newspaper Serving the Tri-State District

The Kent Branches Are Serving Well

Establishment of the Kent State Academic Center here last year caused concern among some as to whether it would attract a sufficient number of students and properly serve the higher education needs of the district.

This skepticism was generated by memories of the previous Kent State endeavor here which was rather short-lived.

What many of these who expressed concern failed to recognize was the change in both Kent and the community attitudes since 1959.

The total picture of higher education has brought to every university realization that college programs have to be decentralized because crowded main campuses no longer can accommodate the masses of freshmen and sophomore students seeking degrees.

In the East Liverpool area, the need for a strong, accredited college program motivated action toward asking Kent to establish a center which could serve our district young people.

KENT'S NEW administration — energetic and aware of its expanded responsibilities — has brought to this city and its neighboring communities a top - level academic operation which is equivalent to main campus instruction anywhere in the tri-state district and acceptable to other universities throughout the nation.

The enthusiasm of the student body for this university program and their own development of a campus life approach to their environment between classes testifies to the success of the branch in their minds.

The anticipation of more than 400 students next fall proves the acceptance of the center among the high school groups and other potential students of the area.

The Kent centers here and at Salem are providing Columbiana County with an exceptional grade of university instruction — through knowledgeable and highly - paid administrators and instructors — at no extra cost to taxpayers.

Shortly Kent will be offering associate degrees — two-year programs in applied science, applied business and arts, qualifying students as technicians in chemical engineering, drafting and design engineering, electronics and metallurgical engineering, office administration and nursing.

It is clear to anyone familiar with the Kent operation here that it is a vital asset to the communities of the district, not only in education but in terms of cultural and economic development.

ESTABLISHMENT OF a community college for the county, as proposed for the Lisbon or Columbiana areas, raises on the other hand a number of hard-to-answer questions, including adequate financing, accreditation and sufficient qualified instructors.

The Ohio Board of Regents at Columbus, with which rests the final decision, certainly should take into consideration the fitting role the two Kent branches already are playing in the county, the expense and difficulties in launching a new college operation which would duplicate existing programs and the advisibility instead of comprehensive technical training which better would serve the needs of many not able or not desiring to turn to the higher education offered by the university branches.

The Lady Gets 'A' For Candor

Mrs. George C. Wallace, wife of the governor of Alabama, has announced she is a candidate to succeed him and accompanied this long-expected "new" with a remarkably candid statement.

She says she will be governor only in name if elected; that her husband, barred from running by the Alabama constitution, will make all decisions.

The lady would not even be expected to do more than go through the motion of campaigning; her husband would do that, too.

This is as close to a mockery of administrative responsibility as it is possible to get without turning government into a farce. Yet no one inside or outside of Alabama is going to risk money betting it won't be a thumping political success.

While Mrs. Wallace is gathering in the votes her husband can attract plus votes she can attract in her own right as the attractive mother of four children and a loyal wife standing staunchly by a politician husband trying to evade oblivion, other contestants in the Alabama primary for governor will be cutting up one another like good fellows.

It will be hard for her to lose.

Unless the other candidates in the Democratic primary get together on one contestant to run against her, or the primary ends in a dead heat, it will be impossible for anyone else to win.

How's Your Car?

The news services have carried reports in recent weeks of deaths from carbon monoxide poisoning in parked cars — —including two in the tri - state area.

Faulty exhaust systems can be fatal — —as the record very clearly shows. If there's any question about your car, a speedy checkup is in order.

Letter From Max

By Martin Miller

Dear Truman Twill:

You were writing the other day about the first stirrings of spring. It made me think of the soapbox scooters mounted on the two halves of a roller skate that boys used to make.

You can decide whether the term "two halves" is redundant.

It was almost a sure spanking for a boy to wreck a pair of roller skates by taking one of the skates apart to make a scooter. That was the first hazard.

A boy's best hope was to have an old pair of skates which were scarcely usable, in order to get permission to undertake this project. If one of the skates was broken, his chances were excellent of getting permission to use the other one for anything he wanted.

This may have led to deliberate sabotage of a skate here and there, but the evidence is unclear on this point, and first-hand witnesses are hard to come by.

OTHER REQUISITES for a scooter were a stout piece of wood, such as a 2x4 about three feet long for the base to which the skate wheels were fastened, a soapbox for the front, and a short piece of wood for a handle across the top of the box.

Two tricky steps in making the thing were attaching the halves of the skate firmly enough to the footpiece and cutting the little rubber piece correctly in the front wheel assembly so the scooter would tip just right for steering.

Maybe you didn't know this, but most skates are adjustable for length, so the way to get the two sets of wheels separated is to loosen the nut and pull the front and back wheels apart. This provides a set of wheels for the front of the scooter, another set for the rear.

Good sidewalks were necessary for full enjoyment of these scooters, just as they are for the most fun of skating around home.

IF YOU NEVER made and ued such a scooter you missed something.

Your mention of spring also brought to mind the anxious waiting after Christmas for the weather to clear enough for the use of new wagons, bicycles, skates and other such things received as Christmas presents.

Boys are still torn between two wishes at Christmas, whether they want snow for the use of their sleds, skis and such, or whether they want warmer weather for their summertime gifts.

One vehicle I used to dream of owning was an Irish Mail, that thing you sat on, steered with your feet and propelled with a handle pumped by your hands and arms. I never had one but am sure I could have set new speed records if I had.

YOU WERE wondering if girls who wear boots almost up to the knee keep the boots on or go barefoot when they get indoors.

Twill, there has been a revolution in feminine footwear. What the gals do is have extra shoes stashed away handy, at home, at school, at the office, or in those big handbags they carry, so they can slip on the shoes when they take off the boots. Glad to answer your questions about girls any time.

You put in a plug for civilian boards of review for city police on grounds the military forces have civilian secretaries in charge of them. You forgot that city police have elected and civilian mayors and appointed civilian safety directors over them. The military also has courts-martial.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

Couldn't Care Less

By Truman Twill

I am interested in an article reprinted in this country from the Daily Telegraph of London, because it says something I've been thinking may be true about the United States.

Eldon Griffiths, a Tory member of Parliament, says in this article that both the Tories and the Labor party in Briton are out of tune with the popular feeling of a generation "sophisticated enough to resent being messed about by incompetent Big Government, being pushed around by reactionary Big Unions, being let down by unenlighted Big Business."

The writer calls members of this resentful generation the "new competitors." He says its members never have "worn the cloth cap of organized labor and have no desire whatsoever to put on the gray topper of the Old Establishment."

I can point out counterparts of these "new competitors" in our country. They, too, are looking for a political movement responsive to their needs and wishes. They do not feel at home in either of the established parties.

These people are neither conservative nor liberal, in the usual meaning of those terms in U.S. politics. They feel conservative about some things they are primarily interested in realism. They are fed up with ideological palaver, traditional prejudices and fixed positions not adjustable to changing circumstances.

These people have had advanced education. They have been around intelligent, informed associates long enough to have sophistication; they cannot be taken in by spielers, softsoapers, rabble-rousers and the opportunists who make a mocker of popular government.

When they let themselves be sorted out between the two major parties, they keep their tongues in their cheeks and their hands in their pocket. They do not think of themselves as sheep and goats but cogent human beings who have come to political maturity in a world not of their making and not to their liking.

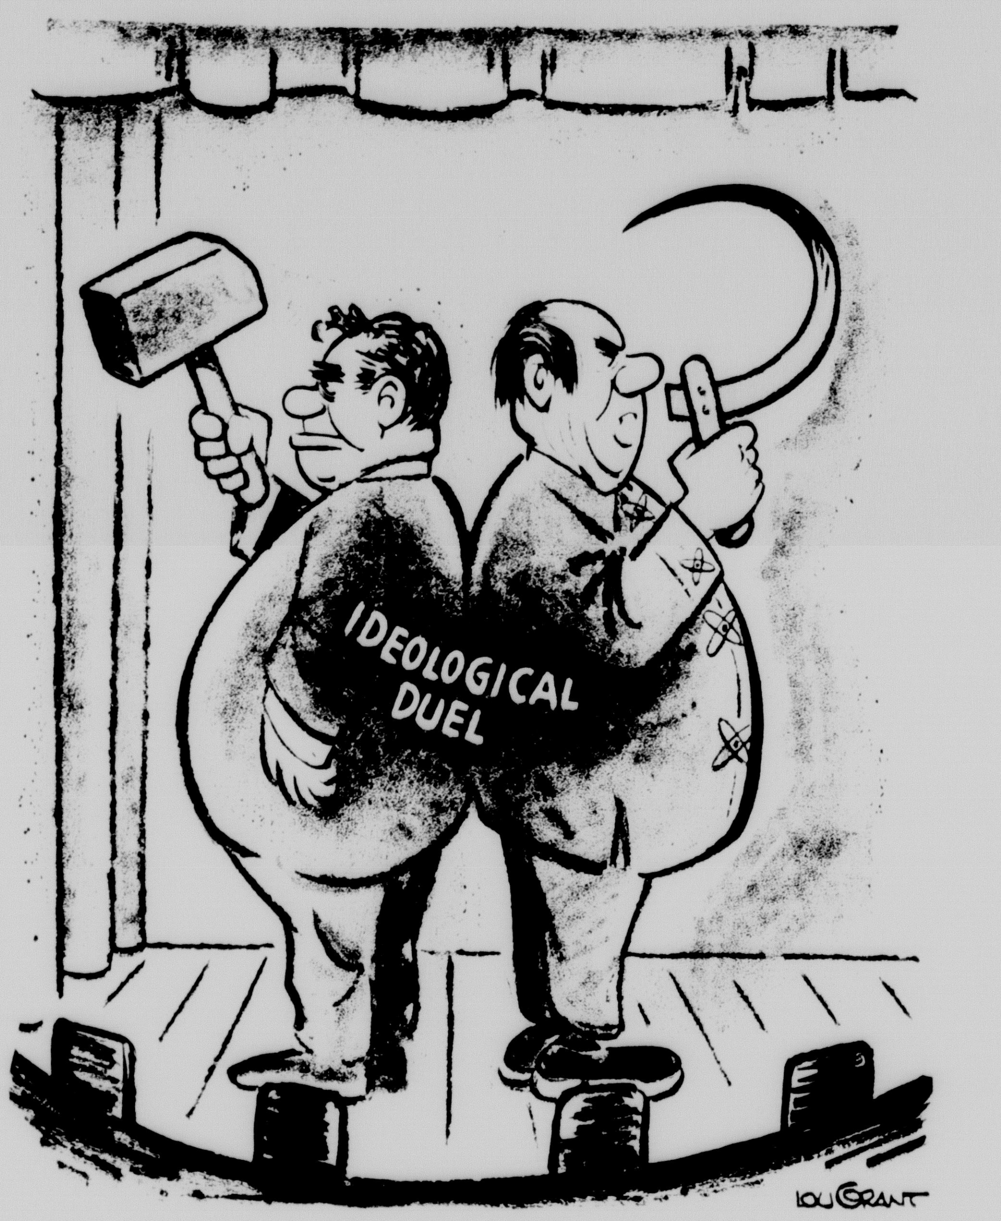
They are looking for something better.

Mr. Griffiths sums it up like this, as far as Britain's major parties are concerned:

"Floating voters, in particular, have come to the conclusion that Labor deserves to be thrown out but the Tories do not yet deserve to be thrown back in."

I think the Democratic and Republican parties need to be thinking about "new competitors" in our country. The "competitors" I know are not at home in either of the standard parties.

Is There A Doctrine In The House?



Unions Still High On Johnson

By Victor Riesel

There is no rift between the nation's labor chiefs and the nation's chief executive.

Despite their public grumbling over guideposts and all the mumbo-jumbo and the injargon of economic advisers on both sides, the labor movement is welding one of the most modern political machines in U.S. history to re-elect Democratic candidates and keep complete control of Congress in President Johnson's hands this fall.

Victor Riesel

The new labor vote-getting machinery will be electronic-ized. It will be cinematized. It will be visualized.

There is such devotion to Mr. Johnson that virtually all regional labor political training sessions now feature a filmed dialogue between the President of the U.S. and George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO.

To these conferences come congressmen to answer the questions of the trainees — most of them top and second echelon labor leaders recruited by the famous COPE — Committee on Political Education.

THESE PARLEYS also are shown slides to perfect block - by - block techniques of vote-getting, dramatizations of the accomplishments of the Congress and most of all the wizardry of electronic campaigning.

This electronic gadgetry will be the key to future labor electioneering. The hard-driving, round-the-clock COPE director, Al Barkan, is responsible for this innovation which will revolutionize the politics of the future.

While the national labor leaders get their grumbling over 14B into the headlines, he's setting up his electronic data processing for the byways of the land, the wards and precincts and blocks of the big cities.

This computerized campaigning will be at the disposal of the 51 liberal - labor freshman congressmen who rode in on the Johnsonian coattails. It will be used to elect senators, despite the current civil war with the Democrats. And it will be thrown in behind literally thousands of city and state candidates.

OBVIOUSLY THE OUTWARD complaint over the failure to get the 14B repealer through merely are part of a pressure game to warn the Democrats that they must now produce a higher national minimum wage; federalize the unemployment insurance system as a step towards permanent income for unfortunate jobless; and extend the coverage of present minimum wage laws to some eight million more persons.

It would be folly for the labor movement to abandon the Democratic coalition, one of the top leaders of COPE's administrative board told his colleagues during the AFL-CIO midwinter sessions in Bal Harbour, Fla.

They would leave themselves open to retaliation at the very moment when the National Right-to-Work Committee is planning a drive to outlaw political spending by labor. The Supreme Court has ruled that unions must return to members who object to labor's political action that part of their dues money used for such purposes.

So Mr. Barkan and his aides now are calling on unions in three areas for copies of their membership lists. These will get top security protection so they don't leak out. The regions are the Baltimore - Washington, D.C., metropolitan districts; the entire state of Pennsylvania, and the nine northern counties of California.

THESE NAMES will be put on electronic tape. They will be "programmed" so that unions' computers will tell the labor stategists in a few minutes which of the members are registered; the political status of their families; their voting addresses by district and precinct.

From such tapes will come more than fast selective mailings. Automatically, block lists of union members will be quickly prepared for canvassing; delinquents in COPE dollar-per-member drives will easily be picked out; route lists will be prepared for drivers to rush to polls. Walk sheets will be swiftly run off to use by COPE precinct workers on election day.

But 1966 will be prelude. The Baltimore-Washington, D.C., operation will become the pattern for city drives. The Pennsylvnia operation will become the standard for state campaigns. And the nine-county California experiment will show how regions can be electronic-ized and galvanized.

By 1968 the entire COPE apparatus may well be put on a data processing basis — to re-elect President Johnson and a liberal-labor Congress.

Pay no heed to the grumbling. The coalition still is tight.

Blockade Urged

By Raymond Moley

Would Block Red Supply Lires

In a telegram to President Johnson the Maritime Trades Department of the AFL-CIO announced that the maritime unions would soon begin a boycott of ships under flags of countries whose vessels trade with North Viet Nam. This is not the first time the maritime unions have sought to preempt control over our foreign policy.

In the present instance they are expressing their contempt for the emptiness of the gesture in the Maritime Administration's announcement that ships trading with North Viet Nam would not be permitted to carry foreign-aid cargoes from the United States.

For more than a year, members of the House of Representatives have been protesting against free-world traffic with North Viet Nam. In February of last year Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., specifically listed the ships of the free world entering North Viet Nam and the port from which they had sailed. He has repeatedly sought restriction on this traffic.

On Feb. 7 Rep. Charles E. Chamberlain, R-Mich., in the course of a long speech listed by name, nationality and tonnage the free-world ships which called at North Viet Nam in 1965. There were 119 arrivals, of which 67 were under the British flag.

THE JAPANESE SHIPS which had been listed by Congressman Rogers and which had been active in the trade have been restrained by their government following protests from Washington. Liberia and Lebanon have prohibited ships under their flags from calling at North Viet Nam.

A law is pending in the Greek parliament to forbid all ships under the Greek flag to enter North Viet Nam. There have been no Norwegian ships there since the middle of November when the second of two vessels left the trade.

British sources have claimed that their government is powerless to stop the trade — mainly under Hong Kong owners — because the ships are chartered to the Communists. In response to this, congressmen point out that since the United States is supporting the British in its quarantine of Rhodesia, we have a right to demand reciprocal action in our effort to stop aggression in Viet Nam.

Secretary Dean Rusk and the State Department have offered a number of rather flimsy statements. They say that the traffic was less in 1965 than it had been earlier. It's true, as Congressman Rogers has pointed out, that the number of arrivals of free-world vessels has fallen — from 32 in the first six weeks of 1965 to eight in the comparable period this year. But that is eight too many. Moreover, the unclassified information available is considered to be understated.

ON ONE OCCASION Secretary Rusk made the remarkable statement that most of the ships going into the harbors of North Viet Nam were empty or carrying ballast and that they went there to carry out fresh fruit and vegetables. Practically no fruit is raised in Viet Nam, and such stuff as rice and sweet potatoes are consumed at home.

It's very clear, however, that lethal supplies are reaching North Viet Nam by sea. Late models of Soviet MIGs are there, and they could not have flown in or have come by land. They were dicovered in crates. Artillery, anti-aircraft guns and other material have come by sea.

The issue comes down to the use of our powerful Navy to cut North Viet Nam's supply by blockading its ports. For the reduction of free-world shipping does not mean that fewer cargoes are reaching North Viet Nam.

In the last few years the Soviet Union has been building its sea power at a spectacular rate, a development largely overlooked here because of the more obvious sensation of the moon race. The vast new shipping capability of the Communist bloc, however, is a formidable challenge only dimly perceived while discussion of free-world shipping becomes moot.

THERE SEEMS to be a ingular lack of understanding about the sort of blockade that might be applied. Under international law it's not necessary that war be declared before a blockade is imposed.

Through the 19th century and into the 20th the British, French, Russians and Germans used what is called a pacific blockade in situations which were short of a declared war. President Kennedy resorted to pacific blockade in the missile crisis in 1962, although he used the word "quarantine" to describe it.

Such a blockade need not sink ships or destroy cargoes. The United States would simply declare such a blockade and warn all the nations concerned. It would list what it considers to be contraband.

The Navy would make sure that ships are stopped before they enter North Vietnamese ports. The Navy's Operation Market Time has progressively restricted infiltration by sea into South Viet Nam. We have been curiously tender toward Communist shipping in the North.

Snuff is thought of by many as an outmoded product of more than a century ago. But the truth of the matter is that more than six million persons throughout the U.S. today are users of snuff and there is 10 times as much snuff consumed by Americans now, in this scientific technological mass production age, as was used in the entire world in 1875.

Dry cleaning is not strictly speaking a "dry" process. The articles are placed in a washer containing a wet solution and they become quite thoroughly saturated.

The Kent Branches Are Serving Well

Establishment of the Kent State Academic Center here last year caused concern among some as to whether it would attract a sufficient number of students and properly serve the higher education needs of the district.

This skepticism was generated by memories of the previous Kent State endeavor here which was rather short-lived.

What many of these who expressed concern failed to recognize was the change in both Kent and the community attitudes since 1959.

The total picture of higher education has brought to every university realization that college programs have to be decentralized because crowded main campuses no longer can accommodate the masses of freshmen and sophomore students seeking degrees.

In the East Liverpool area, the need for a strong, accredited college program motivated action toward asking Kent to establish a center which could serve our district young people.

KENT'S NEW administration — energetic and aware of its expanded responsibilities — has brought to this city and its neighboring communities a top - level academic operation which is equivalent to main campus instruction anywhere in the tri-state district and acceptable to other universities throughout the nation.

The enthusiasm of the student body for this university program and their own development of a campus life approach to their environment between classes testifies to the success of the branch in their minds.

The anticipation of more than 400 students next fall proves the acceptance of the center among the high school groups and other potential students of the area.

The Kent centers here and at Salem are providing Columbiana County with an exceptional grade of university instruction — through knowledgeable and highly - paid administrators and instructors — at no extra cost to taxpayers.

Shortly Kent will be offering associate degrees — two-year programs in applied science, applied business and arts, qualifying students as technicians in chemical engineering, drafting and design engineering, electronics and metallurgical engineering, office administration and nursing.

It is clear to anyone familiar with the Kent operation here that it is a vital asset to the communities of the district, not only in education but in terms of cultural and economic development.

ESTABLISHMENT OF a community college for the county, as proposed for the Lisbon or Columbiana areas, raises on the other hand a number of hard-to-answer questions, including adequate financing, accreditation and sufficient qualified instructors.

The Ohio Board of Regents at Columbus, with which rests the final decision, certainly should take into consideration the fitting role the two Kent branches already are playing in the county, the expense and difficulties in launching a new college operation which would duplicate existing programs and the advisibility instead of comprehensive technical training which better would serve the needs of many not able or not desiring to turn to the higher education offered by the university branches.

The Lady Gets 'A' For Candor

Mrs. George C. Wallace, wife of the governor of Alabama, has announced she is a candidate to succeed him and accompanied this long-expected "new" with a remarkably candid statement.

She says she will be governor only in name if elected; that her husband, barred from running by the Alabama constitution, will make all decisions.

The lady would not even be expected to do more than go through the motion of campaigning; her husband would do that, too.

This is as close to a mockery of administrative responsibility as it is possible to get without turning government into a farce. Yet no one inside or outside of Alabama is going to risk money betting it won't be a thumping political success.

While Mrs. Wallace is gathering in the votes her husband can attract plus votes she can attract in her own right as the attractive mother of four children and a loyal wife standing staunchly by a politician husband trying to evade oblivion, other contestants in the Alabama primary for governor will be cutting up one another like good fellows.

It will be hard for her to lose.

Unless the other candidates in the Democratic primary get together on one contestant to run against her, or the primary ends in a dead heat, it will be impossible for anyone else to win.

How's Your Car?

The news services have carried reports in recent weeks of deaths from carbon monoxide poisoning in parked cars — —including two in the tri - state area.

Faulty exhaust systems can be fatal — —as the record very clearly shows. If there's any question about your car, a speedy checkup is in order.

Letter From Max

By Martin Miller

Dear Truman Twill:

You were writing the other day about the first stirrings of spring. It made me think of the soapbox scooters mounted on the two halves of a roller skate that boys used to make.

You can decide whether the term "two halves" is redundant.

It was almost a sure spanking for a boy to wreck a pair of roller skates by taking one of the skates apart to make a scooter. That was the first hazard.

A boy's best hope was to have an old pair of skates which were scarcely usable, in order to get permission to undertake this project. If one of the skates was broken, his chances were excellent of getting permission to use the other one for anything he wanted.

This may have led to deliberate sabotage of a skate here and there, but the evidence is unclear on this point, and first-hand witnesses are hard to come by.

OTHER REQUISITES for a scooter were a stout piece of wood, such as a 2x4 about three feet long for the base to which the skate wheels were fastened, a soapbox for the front, and a short piece of wood for a handle across the top of the box.

Two tricky steps in making the thing were attaching the halves of the skate firmly enough to the footpiece and cutting the little rubber piece correctly in the front wheel assembly so the scooter would tip just right for steering.

Maybe you didn't know this, but most skates are adjustable for length, so the way to get the two sets of wheels separated is to loosen the nut and pull the front and back wheels apart. This provides a set of wheels for the front of the scooter, another set for the rear.

Good sidewalks were necessary for full enjoyment of these scooters, just as they are for the most fun of skating around home.

IF YOU NEVER made and ued such a scooter you missed something.

Your mention of spring also brought to mind the anxious waiting after Christmas for the weather to clear enough for the use of new wagons, bicycles, skates and other such things received as Christmas presents.

Boys are still torn between two wishes at Christmas, whether they want snow for the use of their sleds, skis and such, or whether they want warmer weather for their summertime gifts.

One vehicle I used to dream of owning was an Irish Mail, that thing you sat on, steered with your feet and propelled with a handle pumped by your hands and arms. I never had one but am sure I could have set new speed records if I had.

YOU WERE wondering if girls who wear boots almost up to the knee keep the boots on or go barefoot when they get indoors.

Twill, there has been a revolution in feminine footwear. What the gals do is have extra shoes stashed away handy, at home, at school, at the office, or in those big handbags they carry, so they can slip on the shoes when they take off the boots. Glad to answer your questions about girls any time.

You put in a plug for civilian boards of review for city police on grounds the military forces have civilian secretaries in charge of them. You forgot that city police have elected and civilian mayors and appointed civilian safety directors over them. The military also has courts-martial.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

Couldn't Care Less

By Truman Twill

I am interested in an article reprinted in this country from the Daily Telegraph of London, because it says something I've been thinking may be true about the United States.

Eldon Griffiths, a Tory member of Parliament, says in this article that both the Tories and the Labor party in Briton are out of tune with the popular feeling of a generation "sophisticated enough to resent being messed about by incompetent Big Government, being pushed around by reactionary Big Unions, being let down by unenlighted Big Business."

The writer calls members of this resentful generation the "new competitors." He says its members never have "worn the cloth cap of organized labor and have no desire whatsoever to put on the gray topper of the Old Establishment."

I can point out counterparts of these "new competitors" in our country. They, too, are looking for a political movement responsive to their needs and wishes. They do not feel at home in either of the established parties.

These people are neither conservative nor liberal, in the usual meaning of those terms in U.S. politics. They feel conservative about some things they are primarily interested in realism. They are fed up with ideological palaver, traditional prejudices and fixed positions not adjustable to changing circumstances.

These people have had advanced education. They have been around intelligent, informed associates long enough to have sophistication; they cannot be taken in by spielers, softsoapers, rabble-rousers and the opportunists who make a mocker of popular government.

When they let themselves be sorted out between the two major parties, they keep their tongues in their cheeks and their hands in their pocket. They do not think of themselves as sheep and goats but cogent human beings who have come to political maturity in a world not of their making and not to their liking.

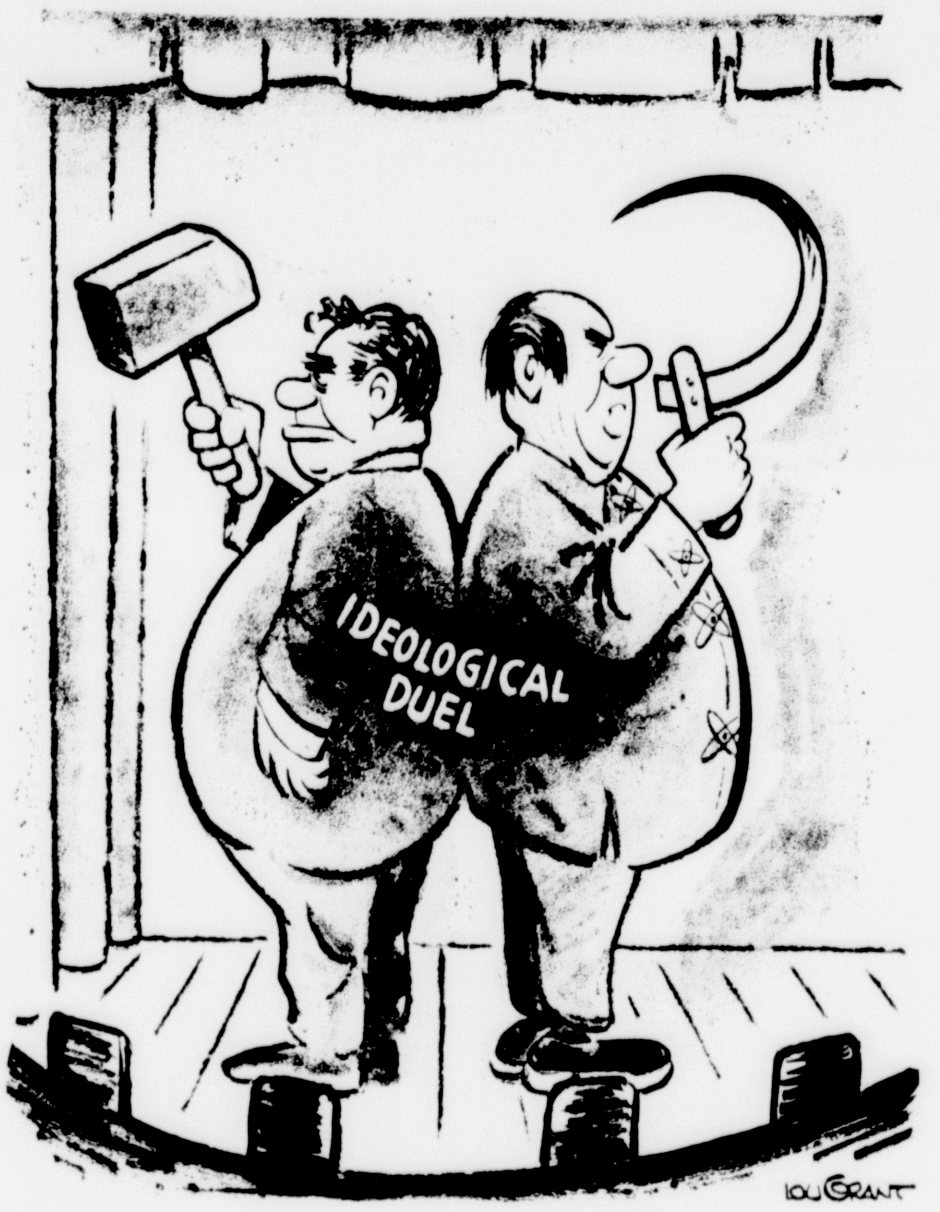
They are looking for something better.

Mr. Griffiths sums it up like this, as far as Britain's major parties are concerned:

"Floating voters, in particular, have come to the conclusion that Labor deserves to be thrown out but the Tories do not yet deserve to be thrown back in."

I think the Democratic and Republican parties need to be thinking about "new competitors" in our country. The "competitors" I know are not at home in either of the standard parties.

Is There A Doctrine In The House?



Unions Still High On Johnson

By Victor Riesel

There is no rift between the nation's labor chiefs and the nation's chief executive.

Victor Riesel

Despite their public grumbling over guideposts and all the mumbo-jumbo and the injargon of economic advisers on both sides, the labor movement is welding one of the most modern political machines in U.S. history to re-elect Democratic candidates and keep complete control of Congress in President Johnson's hands this fall.

The new labor vote-getting machinery will be electronicized. It will be cinematized. It will be visualized.

There is such devotion to Mr. Johnson that virtually all regional labor political training sessions now feature a filmed dialogue between the President of the U.S. and George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO.

To these conferences come congressmen to answer the questions of the trainees — most of them top and second echelon labor leaders recruited by the famous COPE — Committee on Political Education.

THESE PARLEYS also are shown slides to perfect block - by - block techniques of vote-getting, dramatizations of the accomplishments of the Congress and most of all the wizardry of electronic campaigning.

This electronic gadgetry will be the key to future labor electioneering. The hard-driving, round-the-clock COPE director, Al Barkan, is responsible for this innovation which will revolutionize the politics of the future.

While the national labor leaders get their grumbling over 14B into the headlines, he's setting up his electronic data processing for the byways of the land, the wards and precincts and blocks of the big cities.

This computerized campaigning will be at the disposal of the 51 liberal - labor freshman congressmen who rode in on the Johnsonian coattails. It will be used to elect senators, despite the current civil war with the Democrats. And it will be thrown in behind literally thousands of city and state candidates.

OBVIOUSLY THE OUTWARD complaint over the failure to get the 14B repealer through merely are part of a pressure game to warn the Democrats that they must now produce a higher national minimum wage; federalize the unemployment insurance system as a step towards permanent income for unfortunate jobless; and extend the coverage of present minimum wage laws to some eight million more persons.

It would be folly for the labor movement to abandon the Democratic coalition, one of the top leaders of COPE's administrative board told his colleagues during the AFL-CIO midwinter sessions in Bal Harbour, Fla.

They would leave themselves open to retaliation at the very moment when the National Right-to-Work Committee is planning a drive to outlaw political spending by labor. The Supreme Court has ruled that unions must return to members who object to labor's political action that part of their dues money used for such purposes.

So Mr. Barkan and his aides now are calling on unions in three areas for copies of their membership lists. These will get top security protection so they don't leak out. The regions are the Baltimore - Washington, D.C., metropolitan districts; the entire state of Pennsylvania, and the nine northern counties of California.

THESE NAMES will be put on electronic tape. They will be "programmed" so that unions' computers will tell the labor stategists in a few minutes which of the members are registered; the political status of their families; their voting addresses by district and precinct.

From such tapes will come more than fast selective mailings. Automatically, block lists of union members will be quickly prepared for canvassing; delinquents in COPE dollar-per-member drives will easily be picked out; route lists will be prepared for drivers to rush to polls. Walk sheets will be swiftly run off to use by COPE precinct workers on election day.

But 1966 will be prelude. The Baltimore-Washington, D.C., operation will become the pattern for city drives. The Pennsylvania operation will become the standard for state campaigns. And the nine-county California experiment will show how regions can be electronic-ized and galvanized.

By 1968 the entire COPE apparatus may well be put on a data processing basis — to re-elect President Johnson and a liberal-labor Congress.

Pay no heed to the grumbling. The coalition still is tight.

Would Block Red Supply Lires

In a telegram to President Johnson the Maritime Trades Department of the AFL-CIO announced that the maritime unions would soon begin a boycott of ships under flags of countries whose vessels trade with North Viet Nam. This is not the first time the maritime unions have sought to preempt control over our foreign policy.

In the present instance they are expressing their contempt for the emptiness of the gesture in the Maritime Administration's announcement that ships trading with North Viet Nam would not be permitted to carry foreign-aid cargoes from the United States.

For more than a year, members of the House of Representatives have been protesting against free-world traffic with North Viet Nam. In February of last year Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., specifically listed the ships of the free world entering North Viet Nam and the port from which they had sailed. He has repeatedly sought restriction on this traffic.

On Feb. 7 Rep. Charles E. Chamberlain, R-Mich., in the course of a long speech listed by name, nationality and tonnage the free-world ships which called at North Viet Nam in 1965. There were 119 arrivals, of which 67 were under the British flag.

THE JAPANESE SHIPS which had been listed by Congressman Rogers and which had been active in the trade have been restrained by their government following protests from Washington. Liberia and Lebanon have prohibited ships under their flags from calling at North Viet Nam.

A law is pending in the Greek parliament to forbid all ships under the Greek flag to enter North Viet Nam. There have been no Norwegian ships there since the middle of November when the second of two vessels left the trade.

British sources have claimed that their government is powerless to stop the trade — mainly under Hong Kong owners — because the ships are chartered to the Communists. In response to this, congressmen point out that since the United States is supporting the British in its quarantine of Rhodesia, we have a right to demand reciprocal action in our effort to stop aggression in Viet Nam.

Secretary Dean Rusk and the State Department have offered a number of rather flimsy statements. They say that the traffic was less in 1965 than it had been earlier. It's true, as Congressman Rogers has pointed out, that the number of arrivals of free-world vessels has fallen — from 32 in the first six weeks of 1965 to eight in the comparable period this year. But that is eight too many. Moreover, the unclassified information available is considered to be understated.

ON ONE OCCASION Secretary Rusk made the remarkable statement that most of the ships going into the harbors of North Viet Nam were empty or carrying ballast and that they went there to carry out fresh fruit and vegetables. Practically no fruit is raised in Viet Nam, and such stuff as rice and sweet potatoes are consumed at home.

It's very clear, however, that lethal supplies are reaching North Viet Nam by sea. Late models of Soviet MIGs are there, and they could not have flown in or have come by land. They were dicovered in crates. Artillery, anti-aircraft guns and other material have come by sea.

The issue comes down to the use of our powerful Navy to cut North Viet Nam's supply by blockading its ports. For the reduction of free-world shipping does not mean that fewer cargoes are reaching North Viet Nam.

In the last few years the Soviet Union has been building its sea power at a spectacular rate, a development largely overlooked here because of the more obvious sensation of the moon race. The vast new shipping capability of the Communist bloc, however, is a formidable challenge only dimly perceived while discussion of free-world shipping becomes moot.

THERE SEEMS to be a ingular lack of understanding about the sort of blockade that might be applied. Under international law it's not necessary that war be declared before a blockade is imposed.

Through the 19th century and into the 20th the British, French, Russians and Germans used what is called a pacific blockade in situations which were short of a declared war. President Kennedy resorted to pacific blockade in the missile crisis in 1962, although he used the word "quarantine" to describe it.

Such a blockade need not sink ships or destroy cargoes. The United States would simply declare such a blockade and warn all the nations concerned. It would list what it considers to be contraband.

The Navy would make sure that ships are stopped before they enter North Vietnamese ports. The Navy's Operation Market Time has progressively restricted infiltration by sea into South Viet Nam. We have been curiously tender toward Communist shipping in the North.

Syria Moves Nearer Reds

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Leaders of the military coup last week say their regime will move Syria closer to the Communist bloc.

The government newspaper Al Thawra announced Sunday that Syria "will look more positively to the Socialist (Communist; countries to bring about a practical formula for a joint struggle against world imperialism."

The new regime "will also try to consolidate economic and technical cooperation within the Socialist experiment with the Socialist camp," the newspaper said.

The new government's first foreign-policy announcement appeared to confirm reports that the left-wing officers who ousted Gen. Amin Hafez did so to counteract what they considered a slowing down of socialism under his regime.

Judge Fines Man Who Halted Race For Use Of Whip

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Walter John Hoysted, who held up a horse race with a shotgun because he thinks jockeys shouldn't use whips, was fined $80 today.

A friend paid his fine and legal expenses, saying, "I believe in Wally's cause—it is right and I am willing to pay for him."

Hoysted, 52, told the court he took his shotgun to the Flemington race course on Feb. 19 "to extricate a promise that whippings would not go on."

"I would not have hurt anyone," he said. "I wouldn't hurt a fly."

The court fined him $30 for being armed with an offensive weapon, $20 for discharging a firearm without authority and $30 for assaulting a policeman.

Hoysted, who said he was a jockey until he got too heavy, said he would try to organize a sitdown campaign at a Melbourne race course.

Officers Cite 4 Youths For East End Incident

Four East End boys were held for juvenile officials Sunday night after reportedly being part of a larger gang which terrorized householders in the Globe St. - Holliday St. section of East End.

The four, including two brothers, were turned over to Juvenile Officer James Miller. Two of the group reportedly were caught by a householder and another by Patrolman William F. Copestick as householders participated in the search for the gang.

Police indicated they had received numerous complaints that the gang set fire to a woman's garage, pounded on a car with a club, and peeped in windows. Reports also had been received on previous nights but police had been unable to nab any of the gang members.

Judge Fines Man Who Halted Race For Use Of Whip

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Walter John Hoysted, who held up a horse race with a shotgun because he thinks jockeys shouldn't use whips, was fined $80 today.

A friend paid his fine and legal expenses, saying, "I believe in Wally's cause—it is right and I am willing to pay for him."

Hoysted, 52, told the court he took his shotgun to the Flemington race course on Feb. 19 "to extricate a promise that whippings would not go on."

"I would not have hurt anyone," he said. "I wouldn't hurt a fly."

The court fined him $30 for being armed with an offensive weapon, $20 for discharging a firearm without authority and $30 for assaulting a policeman.

Hoysted, who said he was a jockey until he got too heavy, said he would try to organize a sitdown campaign at a Melbourne race course.

Officers Cite 4 Youths For East End Incident

Four East End boys were held for juvenile officials Sunday night after reportedly being part of a larger gang which terrorized householders in the Globe St. - Holliday St. section of East End.

The four, including two brothers, were turned over to Juvenile Officer James Miller. Two of the group reportedly were caught by a householder and another by Patrolman William F. Copestick as householders participated in the search for the gang.

Police indicated they had received numerous complaints that the gang set fire to a woman's garage, pounded on a car with a club, and peeped in windows. Reports also had been received on previous nights but police had been unable to nab any of the gang members.

Whale's Gulch, Mizzen Topsil and Come By Chance are among place names in the seafaring province of Newfoundland, Canada.

Kick-Off Meeting Staged For 'Scholars' Campaign

A kick - off rally was held Sunday afternoon at The Review building in preparation for the annual "Dollars for Scholars" drive of the Citizens Scholarship Foundation.

A record number of over 40 officers, trustees and chairmen attended, with all districts represented. The local group covers the school districts of Western Beaver, South Side, East Liverpool, Wellsville, Beaver Local, Oak Glen and Midland.

Jackman S. Vodrey, vice president of the campaign, gave opening remarks, then officers were introduced. Campaign and promotional materials were distributed to the trustees and chairmen for the house - to-house drive.

The materials included receipt forms to be used by the house-to-house solicitors in acknowledging gifts of $1 or more. Also distributed were collection envelopes, identifying arm-bands and promotional posters to be placed throughout the seven school districts.

The house-to-house campaign will begin Sunday afternoon for six of the seven districts, to be followed by a general solicitation of businesses and other groups such as clubs and PTA's.

M. D. Renwick, trustee for Western Beaver, announced that the Western Beaver house-to-house drive will begin Saturday, due to scheduling difficulties encountered in his area.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I remove shoe-leather stains from a pair of light-colored hose?

A.—A tablespoonful of borax added to your washing water should help considerably.

Q.—How can I give cloth rugs a good, general, brightening-up treatment?

A.—Try sprinkling salt over the rug, letting this stand for an hour, then vacuuming it.

Q.—Please suggest a good, efficient way of pressing a pair of men's washable trousers or slacks.

A—One good, safe method is to cover the trousers with newspaper and then use your iron over this. In this way, there's no need to wait for the trousers to dry, because they haven't really been steamed.

Lima Central Junior High School, with 1,500 enrollment, suffered $250,000 damage in a Sunday morning blaze. No one was injured.

Three firemen were treated for smoke inhalation and several more suffered cuts from broken glass when fire swept a business building in Carrollton Saturday night.

An explosion and fire destroyed a big lumber yard west of Portsmouth early Sunday and the State Fire Marshall's Office said there were indications of arson.

Deaths included those of Mrs. Barbara Jean Roberts, 31, and her children, Margaret, 9; Dwight, 8; Adrienne, 6, and Daniel, three months, in the Akron tragedy.

Joe Watson, 30, perished when flames destroyed his house trailer near Mount Orab in Brown County Saturday, and Charles Weigand, 78, died when his clothing caught fire as he burned rubbish behind his home near Strasburg in Tuscarawas County Sunday.

Thirty tenants of the building in Akron where the Roberts died were evacuated safely. That fire, of undetermined origin, was confined to the area of the Roberts apartment.

At Lima, Central Junior High —the former Lima High School —was believed to have been afire several hours before a postal worker spotted flames from across the street at about 8 a.m.

Fire Chief Walter Hydaker said there was some suspicion about the fire's cause. He recalled that two fires, relatively minor, had been set at the junior high school over the Christmas holidays.

This one evidently started in a second floor cafeteria area and spread through most of the upper floor before flames shot through the roof of the 62-year-old building.

Chief Hydaker's damage estimate did not include that to contents.

Central Junior High's students now will have classes in Lima Senior High School—1:15 to 6 p.m.—while the senior high students' classes will be 7 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. The routine starts Thursday.

At Carrollton, the three-story Butler Building suffered an estimated $10,000 damage and $15,000 in merchandise was ruined when fire hit the two top floors. The building housed a clothing store. Adjoining building were damaged.

An unofficial estimate of the loss at the Taylor Lumber Co. at McDermott near Portsmouth was $150,000. The explosion there, heard for miles, tore out part of the main building and triggered a fire that burned five hours. No one was hurt.

In Cincinnati, fire erupted at the Ray St. Clair Roofing and Chimney Service and an employe, George Garland, 37, suffered critical burns.

Somewhat on the lighter side, some children helped rescue eight Cincinnati firemen who responded to an alarm at a 13-story apartment house and became trapped in an elevator.

The power failed as the elevator reached the eighth floor, and the firefighters were trapped 10 minutes until youngsters helped them pry the door open.

The fire? It turned out to be a smoky incinerator.

Carrollton Firemen Hurt

Weekend Fires Claim 7 In Ohio, Damage Heavy

By The Associated Press

Seven lives were lost, several firemen were injured, property damage ran high and school schedules were scrambled in a flurry of fires around Ohio over the weekend.

Thee fatal fires included one in an Akron apartment that killed a mother and four children Saturday night.

Bringing Up A Family

By DR. GARRY MYERS

Children Should Learn To Share Toys

Dr. Garry Myers

Practically all parents of young children wish these children to share their playthings with other children. Sometimes a parent, in his or her zeal to foster sharing in the youngster, only makes it harder for him to share makes him act more selfishly. A desirable aim is to get children to share without trying to force them to share.

When our eldest child was about four, I was with him in a park. We came across a YMCA leader with his little boy near the same age. My boy wanted to use the wagon. Its owner violently objected; he didn't want my little son even to touch the wagon. The father, prompted perhaps by his idealism, proceeded to command his boy to share the wagon. The boy's response was violent. Believing the father was attempting almost the impossible, I found occasion to hurry on with my son, after having made sure he didn't touch the wagon without its young owner's permission.

THAT FATHER'S purposes were good but his procedure bad. He didn't want me to think his child was not taught to share, but I was interested in how his own little boy felt about the matter. The wagon was brand new, with gaudy red paint, not a scratch on it. But I'm pretty sure that if the father had waited quietly and patiently long enough his little boy might gradually have grown ready to let my son pull this wagon. He might have let my son do more with it if the owner had discovered it safe to do so.

When this eldest son of ours was a little older, a cousin near his age came with his parents one Sunday to see us. We all had known from experience how destructive this young guest was. On seeing them arrive our son became almost panicky. We suggested to him that he hide a few of his most precious toys, and he did. Later with some supervision the guest played with the other toys without noticeable damage to them.

When this same boy of ours, who was always very careful of his playthings, was between the ages of five and eight he was very possessive of a special toy of metal horses hitched to a wagon. When his baby sister two years younger would play with them he violently objected, as she was not very careful with them. He generally shared his other toys generously with her.

FINALLY, when he was about nine, and had grown less concerned about this toy, we proposed to buy it for a stated sum and to give it to his little sister, with the clearly stated provision that it would be her own then. It worked.

In the family of several young children, each child should have at least one plaything of his very own. His parents should serve as policemen to guarantee respect of his ownership by his brothers and sisters; that nobody uses this toy without his permission, that when granted the permission, they use it carefully.

There also should be some playthings to be used in common, when patient guidance could encourage sharing and cooperation. There should be a few playthings at which the children must take turns—hobby horse, slide or swing.

Some parents suppose they should give each of two children a wagon or cart exactly alike, to avoid quarreling. But if one had a cart and the other a wagon, each a sole owner, they would find more occasion to exchange and share.

Let us try hard to induce our children to share, but we will get best results when we aim to persaude them to do so and to approve them heartily when they do. We need first of all to respect and protect their ownership.

My bulletins "The Very Selfish Child," "Tot Learning to Be Sociable," and "Stubbornness: Its Prevention and Correction" may be secured by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Bringing Up A Family

By DR. GARRY MYERS

Children Should Learn To Share Toys

Practically all parents of young children wish these children to share their playthings with other children. Sometimes a parent, in his or her zeal to foster sharing in the youngster, only makes it harder for him to share makes him act more selfishly. A desirable aim is to get children to share without trying to force them to share.

Dr. Garry Myers

When our eldest child was about four, I was with him in a park. We came across a YMCA leader with his little boy near the same age. My boy wanted to use the wagon. Its owner violently objected; he didn't want my little son even to touch the wagon. The father, prompted perhaps by his idealism, proceeded to command his boy to share the wagon. The boy's response was violent. Believing the father was attempting almost the impossible, I found occasion to hurry on with my son, after having made sure he didn't touch the wagon without its young owner's permission.

THAT FATHER'S purposes were good but his procedure bad. He didn't want me to think his child was not taught to share, but I was interested in how his own little boy felt about the matter. The wagon was brand new, with gaudy red paint, not a scratch on it. But I'm pretty sure that if the father had waited quietly and patiently long enough his little boy might gradually have grown ready to let my son pull this wagon. He might have let my son do more with it if the owner had discovered it safe to do so.

When this eldest son of ours was a little older, a cousin near his age came with his parents one Sunday to see us. We all had known from experience how destructive this young guest was. On seeing them arrive our son became almost panicky. We suggested to him that he hide a few of his most precious toys, and he did. Later with some supervision the guest played with the other toys without noticeable damage to them.

When this same boy of ours, who was always very careful of his playthings, was between the ages of five and eight he was very possessive of a special toy of metal horses hitched to a wagon. When his baby sister two years younger would play with them he violently objected, as she was not very careful with them. He generally shared his other toys generously with her.

FINALLY, when he was about nine, and had grown less concerned about this toy, we proposed to buy it for a stated sum and to give it to his little sister, with the clearly stated provision that it would be her own then. It worked.

In the family of several young children, each child should have at least one plaything of his very own. His parents should serve as policemen to guarantee respect of his ownership by his brothers and sisters; that nobody uses this toy without his permission, that when granted the permission, they use it carefully.

There also should be some playthings to be used in common, when patient guidance could encourage sharing and cooperation. There should be a few playthings at which the children must take turns—hobby horse, slide or swing.

Some parents suppose they should give each of two children a wagon or cart exactly alike, to avoid quarreling. But if one had a cart and the other a wagon, each a sole owner, they would find more occasion to exchange and share.

Let us try hard to induce our children to share, but we will get best results when we aim to persaude them to do so and to approve them heartily when they do. We need first of all to respect and protect their ownership.

Honest Charlie

* * * * * *

Prices Same Despite Oil Boom

SULPHUR LICK, Ky. (AP) — Depite a monopoly and being surrounded by gushing money, Charles Leamon has passed up the opportunity for quick profit to do what he thinks is honest.

Charlie and his wife own the only store at Sulphur Lick. It's the only store within nine miles of an oil gusher that has brought a boom to the area.

Oilmen came from all over the country and cars lined both sides of the road for a quarter-mile around the Charles Leamon store — the only convenient place to eat.

Customers were shoulder to shoulder on a recent visit. You had to push to get into this typical country store — shoes to beans, pot-bellied stove and rough wooden bench — that normally serves about 1,000 residents of the economically depressed farming area in south central Kentucky. The nearest stores are eight miles south in Tompkinsville or 15 miles north at Glasgow.

After the 4,000-barrel-a-day well was brought in Thanksgiving Day on the Jack Hays farm about a mile from the store, prices on oil leases went from less than $1 an acre to as much as $100 an acre.

But the sign in Leamon's store advertising sandwich prices remains unchanged. "Ham 25 cents, chopped pork 15 cents, bloney (sic) 10 cents, cheese 10 cents."

"Just because a man is an oilman," Leamon said, "I didn't think it would be right to double the price on him. The way it looks to me is that it is dishonest. I was selling them for that before, so I just kept on."

Leamon operates on the honor system.

Charlie or his wife hand out sandwiches at one spot — literally handed without plate or napkin, and the customer spreads his own mayonnaise or mustard.

The other takes up money about six feet down the counter, receiving what the customer says he owed. Soft drinks are kept in a box on the other side of the store and the crowds make it impossible for Charlie to see who got what.

"I only caught one man trying to get out without paying," he said.

3rd Suspect May Be Charged With Killing In Lorain

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—Lorain police will confer with the Lorain County prosecutor's office today on whether to charge a third suspect in the robbery-murder here Feb. 19.

Police are questioning a 28-year-old Lorain man in connection with the holdup at the Convenient Food Mart where a part-time clerk who was the father of two children was shot to death.

Two Elyria men were indicted on charges of first-degree murder and armed robbery last Thursday by the Lorain County Grand Jury. Both had pleaded innocent to the charges when arraigned prior to the indictment.

Police Inspector Maurice Mumford identified the pair as 25-year-old Thomas Walton Hill and 26-year-old Joseph Jones. Both are accused of firing a shotgun blast that killed the 28-year - old clerk, Raymond Pounds.

Pounds, an employe at the Lorain post office, had helped his wife celebrate her 26th birthday a few hours before he was killed.

Police apprehended Hill and Jones shortly after the robbery, and found a shotgun near the car from which the pair had fled along with another man, presumably the driver.

Police have been questioning a number of suspects in an attempt to locate an accomplice who waited in the car during the holdup.

3 Hurt As Train Leaves Rails In Eastern Mishap

CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP)—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's National Limited left the tracks about 10 miles southwest of Cumberland Sunday night, injuring three passengers, a railroad spokesman reported.

Three diesel units and three coaches derailed while the train was traveling from Baltimore and Washington to Cincinnati.

The lead diesel unit stayed upright on the tracks and the crew walked to a telephone to report the accident, saying three persons had been injured slightly.

The crew asked that two ambulances be sent to a point about a half mile from the accident scene, and said the injured passengers would be transported there in the diesel unit.

"Let me show you how you can have custom-made draperies for as little as $1.99 a yard."

Through modern drapery-making methods, TruCraft can produce custom draperies for as little as you would expect to pay for the fabric alone. For example, you can have a TruCraft Custom Drapery on a 48" by 63" window for less than $10.00.

Write your window measurements on the chart and bring it with you to the store. Then choose the fabrics you want from the wide selection on the TruCraft wall display. Within three weeks, you receive perfectly fitting custom draperies ready to hang.

Dozens of different fabrics

A surprisingly low price is only part of the TruCraft story. You pick from 24 styles, 200 colors, and a variety of patterns. Choose from Fiberglas® fabrics, antique satins, prints and solids, 100% Dacron® sheers, casements and jacquards—and for the first time, lined Fiberglas draperies.

TruCraft gives you all the details that say, "custom-made." You get four-inch headings, blind-stitched double bottom hems, weighted corners and your choice of linings.

How to measure:

You only need to make two measurements for each drapery you order—width and length. The width of the drapery rod (place it at least 3" above the window) will be the width of your drapery. Measure the length from the top of the rod to the length you desire. Space is also provided below to note room colors, which need to be considered in selecting draperies.

Honest Charlie

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Prices Same Despite Oil Boom

SULPHUR LICK, Ky. (AP) — Depite a monopoly and being surrounded by gushing money, Charles Leamon has passed up the opportunity for quick profit to do what he thinks is honest.

Charlie and his wife own the only store at Sulphur Lick. It's the only store within nine miles of an oil gusher that has brought a boom to the area.

Oilmen came from all over the country and cars lined both sides of the road for a quarter-mile around the Charles Leamon store — the only convenient place to eat.

Customers were shoulder to shoulder on a recent visit. You had to push to get into this typical country store — shoes to beans, pot-bellied stove and rough wooden bench — that normally serves about 1,000 residents of the economically depressed farming area in south central Kentucky. The nearest stores are eight miles south in Tompkinsville or 15 miles north at Glasgow.

After the 4,000-barrel-a-day well was brought in Thanksgiving Day on the Jack Hays farm about a mile from the store, prices on oil leases went from less than $1 an acre to as much as $100 an acre.

But the sign in Leamon's store advertising sandwich prices remains unchanged. "Ham 25 cents, chopped pork 15 cents, bloney (sic) 10 cents, cheese 10 cents."

"Just because a man is an oilman," Leamon said, "I didn't think it would be right to double the price on him. The way it looks to me is that it is dishonest. I was selling them for that before, so I just kept on."

Leamon operates on the honor system.

Charlie or his wife hand out sandwiches at one spot — literally handed without plate or napkin, and the customer spreads his own mayonnaise or mustard.

The other takes up money about six feet down the counter, receiving what the customer says he owed. Soft drinks are kept in a box on the other side of the store and the crowds make it impossible for Charlie to see who got what.

"I only caught one man trying to get out without paying," he said.

3rd Suspect May Be Charged With Killing In Lorain

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—Lorain police will confer with the Lorain County prosecutor's office today on whether to charge a third suspect in the robbery-murder here Feb. 19.

Police are questioning a 28-year-old Lorain man in connection with the holdup at the Convenient Food Mart where a part-time clerk who was the father of two children was shot to death.

Two Elyria men were indicted on charges of first-degree murder and armed robbery last Thursday by the Lorain County Grand Jury. Both had pleaded innocent to the charges when arraigned prior to the indictment.

Police Inspector Maurice Mumford identified the pair as 25-year-old Thomas Walton Hill and 26-year-old Joseph Jones. Both are accused of firing a shotgun blast that killed the 28-year - old clerk, Raymond Pounds.

Pounds, an employe at the Lorain post office, had helped his wife celebrate her 26th birthday a few hours before he was killed.

Police apprehended Hill and Jones shortly after the robbery, and found a shotgun near the car from which the pair had fled along with another man, presumably the driver.

Police have been questioning a number of suspects in an attempt to locate an accomplice who waited in the car during the holdup.

3 Hurt As Train Leaves Rails In Eastern Mishap

CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP)—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's National Limited left the tracks about 10 miles southwest of Cumberland Sunday night, injuring three passengers, a railroad spokesman reported.

Three diesel units and three coaches derailed while the train was traveling from Baltimore and Washington to Cincinnati.

The lead diesel unit stayed upright on the tracks and the crew walked to a telephone to report the accident, saying three persons had been injured slightly.

The crew asked that two ambulances be sent to a point about a half mile from the accident scene, and said the injured passengers would be transported there in the diesel unit.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: To protect my coated, non-stick cook ware, I store them in plastic bags so they can be stacked inside each other without damaging the finish.

The plastic also keeps out dust, so the pans are always clean and ready for immediate use.

MRS. J. L.

-:-

Absolutely great. Think of all the expensive skillets and pans you will save us.

Bless you always.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: How about those boxes that say, "Press here to open"?

Do you break nails, and hurt your fingers trying?

Use the bowl of a spoon under your thumb! What a temper saver, too.

DOT.

DEAR HELOISE: My friends keep urging me to tell you how I carry my house key in my purse.

Well, here is my solution . . . my husband's old watch chain!

One fastening goes through the hole in the zipper pull on one of the pockets of the purse, and the other end holds the door key.

"All I have to do is to pull up on the chain, and the key comes up from the bottom of my purse!

MILDRED DEMAREE JONES.

DEAR HELOISE: Save all plastic covers from your coffee cans, dips, etc., and you will soon have a variety.

These make the most wonderful coasters under coffee mugs, pop bottles, water glasses, flower vases, or on your bedside table for medicines (especially the gooey kind such as cough syrup), or for syrup, honey and cream pitchers on your breakfast table — just about anything that might leak or spill.

I find these plastic lids priceless.

LaVALLE FLEETWOOD

-:-

And, we find people like you who pass along these wonderful, simple hints are priceless, too. Thanks, LaValle.

DEAR HELOISE: Empty plastic lotion bottles, with tops discarded, make nice, safe water toys for baby while taking his bath.

DEAR HELOISE: I use paper place mats, which make a very neat table.

After the meal is over, I use the soiled mats to dry the table after it has been wiped with a damp cloth.

So, the mats serve double duty.

MRS. IRVIN JUNEAU.

DEAR HELOISE: When I have company for dinner and serve steaks, I have discovered that I can please everyone, by serving their steaks exactly as they like them.

Steaks to be served rare, medium or well-done can all be placed on the grill at the same time and cooked for the same length of time by using frozen steaks for rare, partly thawed steaks for medium and unfrozen steaks for well-done.

Everyone is happy with his steak!

ROBIN INGRAM

-:-

DEAR HELOISE: My huband keeps his wooden matches dry, when on a fishing trip or picnic, by coating the entire match with colorless nail polish and allowing it to dry.

MARJORIE STANLEY.

DEAR HELOISE: I stir some marshmallow cream into warm chocolate pudding after dishing it up, and swirl it around just enough to make it marbled.

Tastes good and looks so pretty, and quite a change from plain chocolate.

One also could use marshmallows.

'Doesn't Know Negro'

Black Muslim Criticizes Rev. Martin Luther King

CHICAGO (AP)—The leader of the Black Muslims, a Negro supremacy sect, says Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. doesn't understand the Negro's problems.

"Every white man is taking a pot shot on the highway at the Negro seeking his rights," Muslim leader Elijah Muhammad said Sunday at the windup of a two-day convention.

Muhammad, 68, said of the Negro Baptist minister: "King is a very nice man, but he comes from very unfriendly people. King doesn't understand the Negro's problem. King says he loves whites and he wants to be their brother."

King, chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, met here with Muhammad last week. King spends three days a week in Chicago working to eliminate slums.

Muhammad drew bursts of applause from the 6,000 followers in the Coliseum with frequent digs at the white man during a rambling 3-hour and 45-minute peech.

The small, wiry man, whose voice grew weaker as he talked, said of the Viet Nam conflict:

"If you (the whites) want us to go to war give us something to fight for. The whites don't want to go fight for their America and the Negro has no America to fight for."

Cassius Clay, the world heavyweight champion who became a Black Muslim three years ago, led the cheering from his bleacher seat 25 feet from the speaking rostrum.

"Yes sir, yes sir," Clay, alias Muhammad Ali, yelled. "You teach us, oh Holy Messenger."

Muhammad, an ex-convict who was born Stanley Poole in Detroit, said he helped Chicago have a mild winter.

"God blessed Chicago with a good, mild winter because I have been in your midst," he said. "I was commissioned by Allah to prophesy. I'm the last messenger — don't look for another one. Behind me comes God."

The white-robed women were separated from the men in the Coliseum. The only whites were 10 reporters.

8-Lane Road Set For California's 'Slaughter Alley'

OCEANSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Slaughter Alley's days are numbered.

An eight-lane freeway will replace by 1968 the dangerous stretch of U.S. Highway 101 where six persons died during heavy fog Feb. 21 in flaming car wrecks.

The State Highway Division says it will call for bids within a month.

Meanwhile, Capt. Don Merry of the California Highway Patrol at Oceanside is seeking legislation to help his men cut down the traffic death toll that has given the road its grim nickname.

Merry wants to keep gasoline tankers and other trucks with dangerous cargoes off the highway in bad weather.

Flaming gasoline from three tanker trucks spilled across the fogged highway in the latest Slaughter Alley catastrophe, cremating motorists trapped in their cars.

"These three trucks contained 19,800 gallons of gasoline. It all burned and so did six persons," Merry said.

"I feel that any vehicle carrying dangerus cargo is a hazard to everybody on the road during bad weather and periods of limited visibility. I'm recommending that we get some legislation giving us the power to get them off the road when conditions warrant," he added.

Merry and his patrolmen see more than their share of death on the highway.

Eighty-four persons were killed in 1964-65 in the 36-mile segment of Highway 101 between Del Mar and San Clemente.

Eight, including the adopted daughter of Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, died in one accident. There have been numerous other multiple-fatality crashes.

New Gambling Joint Reported Operating

The Hancock County sheriff's office at New Cumberland said it had no knowledge of such an establishment when questioned today relative to rumors of a new gambling operation on 5th St. in Newell.

An investigation was promised should there prove to be a basis for the rumors.

Sponsors of the gambling operation are reported to be from Chester, Midland and Steubenville.

Vatican Reveals 10,000 Priests Sought Releases

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Vatican sources say about 10,000 Roman Catholic priests have asked for release from their vows in the past decade, mostly because of celibacy problems.

The sources estimated that several thousand others have turned their backs on the Church without trying to get release from their vows.

Many men who left the priesthood and married in civil ceremonies have sought to return to good spiritual standing as married men, absolved from their priestly promises, the informants said.

The sources said the Vatican recently sent out private instructions to all bishops on how to deal with such cases. They simplify the steps to be followed and grant bishops greater discretion in judging each case.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I hope your readers will learn something from my bitter experience.

Last week my husband was driving home on slippery pavement. His car went out of control and he hit a utility pole. They called me from the hospital and said he was in critical condition. When I arrived my husband was in surgery, where he remained for almost two hours. I prayed the whole time.

I was in the corridor when they brought him down. The doctor said he had a good chance to recover. Then a nurse handed me his watch and billfold. Well, Ann, he has recovered but I don't know if I ever will.

In his billfold were two letters from a woman with whom he obviously had had an affair. She was begging him to come back. I didn't recognize her name and don't know whether she lives in this city or elsewhere since there was no envelope.

I'm crushed to think that my husband would have deceived me this way. Our 22-year marriage was considered ideal by everyone who knew us.

Yesterday he asked for his billfold. When I handed it to him he wanted to know if I had seen the contents. I said, "Yes." He told me how horribly ashamed he was and swore that he had not seen the woman since December and that he never would see her again.

I'm trying to believe in him and trust him once more. I guess the real lesson to be learned here is this: Never carry anything with you that you would not be willing to let the whole world see. Lord alone knows when your next of kin might be handed the damning evidence. — VICTIM OF FATE.

Dear Husbands: How many of you could hand your wallet to your wife at this very moment and not be concerned about what she may find?

If you can't, you'd better do something about it. Like now.

Nixes Nicknames

Dear Ann: Maybe I'm a nut to let this bother me but it does and I want your opinion.

My name is Florence and I like the name. When anyone calls me Flo I bristle inside because I detest that nickname. And I absolutely despise the nickname Flossie.

My daughter's name is Katherine. I loathe the names Kathy, Kate, Katie and Kay. My daughter loathes them also. She is only 8 years old but she knows what she likes.

Yesterday Katherine came from school and told me that a new girl named Katherine joined the class and the teacher has decided to call our Katherine "Kathy" in order to avoid confusion.

This infuriated me. I want to write a note to the teacher telling her to call our daughter by her correct name. My husband says I'm making too much of it and to leave things as they are.

What do you say?—LIVID.

Dear Livid: Yes, you are a nut to let this bother you, but at least you admit that your hostility is grossly out of proportion to the "injustice."

Now that you have effectively transferred your nuttiness about nicknames to your daughter, please let the poor, innocent teacher in on it. She can then call the other Katherine "Kathy" and everyone will be happy.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Workers End Strike Over Women's Job

NEW CONCORD, Ohio (AP) —General Electric Co. warehouse employes on strike in a controversy over women in men's jobs have returned to work—minus the man whose complaint triggered the walkout and six others who reportedly quit.

Thus ended with Sunday's midnight shift, temporarily at least, a bizarre stoppage in which one of the strikers was the woman whose reassignment launched the trouble.

She and her fellow employes, about 130 men and 20 women, went back to the job after strikers met in Zanesville Saturday night and so voted.

Harley Pryor Jr. of Cambridge, president of Local 2111, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, which never held a meeting said the return was a move by the strikers themselves.

The walkout began early Wednesday when a man contended he was, as Pryor reported, "transferred off his light job that he had held five years and a woman with a year and a half of service was put on his light job."

It was the "last straw" in a situation in which nine women had been promoted from parts packing work to filling orders by pushing wheeled carts and loading them from bins for shipment out of the G-E appliance parts supply center.

In reporting the back-to-work decision, Pryor said the man "bumped" had quit. Six other men quit since the strike began, Pryor said, adding that "attitude had a lot to do with it."

Pryor noted that the union has a request pending with the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission and that the employes decided to resume work until the commission rules.

The issue is a purportedly never-tested provision of the 1964 Civil Rights Act banning job discrimination because of sex.

Male employes say favoritism is being shown the women.

General Electric, with supply center personnel director Joe Dirkse as spokesman, has maintained the company is abiding by the law. It has stated the women were given the jobs under the civil rights law giving them equal opportunity since the work they are doing "was entirely within their capability."

Canton Man Charged With Murder Of Wife

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Joseph B. Davis was charged with first-degree murder Sunday in connection with the fatal shooting of his wife, Vera L. Davis, 47.

Mrs. Davis was killed by a shotgun blast Friday at the couple's home. Davis, 47, said the gun accidentally discharged.

Director Appointed

CINCINNATI (AP)— Herman K. Burgett has been named director of industrial relations for the electronics division of the AVCO Corp. in Cincinnati.

Last week my husband was driving home on slippery pavement. His car went out of control and he hit a utility pole. They called me from the hospital and said he was in critical condition. When I arrived my husband was in surgery, where he remained for almost two hours. I prayed the whole time.

I was in the corridor when they brought him down. The doctor said he had a good chance to recover. Then a nurse handed me his watch and billfold. Well, Ann, he has recovered but I don't know if I ever will.

In his billfold were two letters from a woman with whom he obviously had had an affair. She was begging him to come back. I didn't recognize her name and don't know whether she lives in this city or elsewhere since there was no envelope.

I'm crushed to think that my husband would have deceived me this way. Our 22-year marriage was considered ideal by everyone who knew us.

Yesterday he asked for his billfold. When I handed it to him he wanted to know if I had seen the contents. I said, "Yes." He told me how horribly ashamed he was and swore that he had not seen the woman since December and that he never would see her again.

I'm trying to believe in him and trust him once more. I guess the real lesson to be learned here is this: Never carry anything with you that you would not be willing to let the whole world see. Lord alone knows when your next of kin might be handed the damning evidence. — VICTIM OF FATE.

Dear Husbands: How many of you could hand your wallet to your wife at this very moment and not be concerned about what she may find?

If you can't, you'd better do something about it. Like now.

Nixes Nicknames

Dear Ann: Maybe I'm a nut to let this bother me but it does and I want your opinion.

My name is Florence and I like the name. When anyone calls me Flo I bristle inside because I detest that nickname. And I absolutely despise the nickname Flossie.

My daughter's name is Katherine. I loathe the names Kathy, Kate, Katie and Kay. My daughter loathes them also. She is only 8 years old but she knows what she likes.

Yesterday Katherine came from school and told me that a new girl named Katherine joined the class and the teacher has decided to call our Katherine "Kathy" in order to avoid confusion.

This infuriated me. I want to write a note to the teacher telling her to call our daughter by her correct name. My husband says I'm making too much of it and to leave things as they are.

What do you say?—LIVID.

Dear Livid: Yes, you are a nut to let this bother you, but at least you admit that your hostility is grossly out of proportion to the "injustice."

Now that you have effectively transferred your nuttiness about nicknames to your daughter, please let the poor, innocent teacher in on it. She can then call the other Katherine "Kathy" and everyone will be happy.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Workers End Strike Over Women's Job

NEW CONCORD, Ohio (AP) —General Electric Co. warehouse employes on strike in a controversy over women in men's jobs have returned to work—minus the man whose complaint triggered the walkout and six others who reportedly quit.

Thus ended with Sunday's midnight shift, temporarily at least, a bizarre stoppage in which one of the strikers was the woman whose reassignment launched the trouble.

She and her fellow employes, about 130 men and 20 women, went back to the job after strikers met in Zanesville Saturday night and so voted.

Harley Pryor Jr. of Cambridge, president of Local 2111, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, which never held a meeting said the return was a move by the strikers themselves.

The walkout began early Wednesday when a man contended he was, as Pryor reported, "transferred off his light job that he had held five years and a woman with a year and a half of service was put on his light job."

It was the "last straw" in a situation in which nine women had been promoted from parts packing work to filling orders by pushing wheeled carts and loading them from bins for shipment out of the G-E appliance parts supply center.

In reporting the back-to-work decision, Pryor said the man "bumped" had quit. Six other men quit since the strike began, Pryor said, adding that "attitude had a lot to do with it."

Pryor noted that the union has a request pending with the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission and that the employes decided to resume work until the commission rules.

The issue is a purportedly never-tested provision of the 1964 Civil Rights Act banning job discrimination because of sex.

Male employes say favoritism is being shown the women.

General Electric, with supply center personnel director Joe Dirkse as spokesman, has maintained the company is abiding by the law. It has stated the women were given the jobs under the civil rights law giving them equal opportunity since the work they are doing "was entirely within their capability."

Forget The Time Element

The hardest part of starting to reduce is that the time ahead looms so long. Realizing this, a triumphant dieter makes this helpful suggestion: "Forget the time element." Here is her heartening story:

Ida Jean Kain

"The doctor put me on a protective diet and told me to lose two pounds a week until I reached 140 pounds. I weighed 175 pounds and had high blood pressure.

"At first it was, oh, so hard to stay on the diet. After overeating for so long, on the diet I was just plain hungry and a nervous wreck. Banking on the assurance in one of your colum that this period of intense hunger is only temporary, I held on. But during those two weeks I wanted to chuck the diet and eat like mad! Assure your overweights that, if they persist for two weeks, by the third week they will not be anything near as hungry.

"I lost eight pounds the first two weeks, which was encouraging. Then I slowed down to two pounds a week and found myself getting depressed by the slow progress. It seemed like such a long stretch ahead!

"Just about then you wrote a column saying that the way to prevent discouragement is to think in terms of the goal and feel confident of reaching it. I decided to try that positive plan. In five months I accomplished what I formerly thought was impossible.

"When you get really interested in a project and concentrate on your goal, reducing becomes a challenge. The progress report, found in my records of weight and measurements, proved that I was winning. The good news is that today I weigh 135 pounds — and the five months did not seem long at all. From now on I'm going to hold the weight line — it's so wonderful to feel young and slim again!"

THROUGH maintaining your reducing diet you have lightened the burden of fat and achieved your goal. So what to do now?

Step up exercie. It's the ideal time for it. With all those weighty pounds gone you can concentrate on simple toners to firm your muscles and give you that "fresh as spring" look.

Exercise should be both general and specific. On fair days, get out and walk. Walking puts you in a happy, vibrant mood. If you are a bit rusty, start with a short walk, then gradually increase to two or three miles a day. When you awaken in the morning, stretch, bend and swing. Isometric exercises are effective, too. All this will firm the muscles in a surprisingly effective way. You will look and feel slim and firm.

Don't overeat, don't underexercise, and you'll stay slim. Yours is a real success story.

Send long stamped, self - addressed envelope for Wake Up And Stretch and Isometric Exercises. Address your request to Ida Jean Kain in care of The Review.

Reds Silent On 2 Venus Space Shots

MOSCOW (AP) — Two Soviet space probes are supposed to be nearing Venus. The first may pass the cloud-draped planet within the next few days, perhaps Tuesday.

The second, launched into an orbit around the sun four days after the first, is due near Venus about Saturday.

The Soviets have made no official announcements on the progress of the two Venus probes since Dec. 24 when they were about a third of the way to Venus.

But Mstislav Keldysh, president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, told a news conference Feb. 10 that both satellites were due near Venus about March 1. He said radio communication with both probes was continuing.

Venus 2 and Venus 3 were launched last Nov. 12 and Nov. 16 in an effort "to add to our knowledge and obtain additional information about Venus and outer space," according to a brief, vague official announcement.

The most spectacular scientific data on Venus to date has come from the U.S. Mariner 2 satellite which passed within 21,648 miles of the planet on Dec. 14, 1962.

The U.S. probe showed that Venus has a surface temperature of about 800 degrees Fahrenheit, hot enough to melt lead and far too hot for any form of life known on earth.

Court Orders Arrest For 2

Municipal Judge Samuel M Chertoff today forfeited appearance bonds of a Chester motorist and a Substation trucker and ordered bench warrants issued for their arrest after they failed to appear on traffic charges.

The judge forfeited a $90 bond posted by Harold Emmons of Substation on charges of failing to stop within the assured clear distance and failing to display license plates on his tractor.

Emmons was cited Feb. 11 after his rig sheared off a utility pole on Harvey Ave. near the Ohio - Pennsylvania border, dropping electrical lines and interrupting service in the East End for a period of time. His hearing had been scheduled last Monday but was continued until today.

A $32.50 bond posted by Richard M. Parsons, 172 Pennsylvania Ave., Chester, also was forfeited. Parsons was cited Sunday at 2 p. m. on Routes 30 and 7 by the State Highway Patrol on a charge of speeding 90 miles an hour in a 60-mile zone.

Earl William Moffett of 5th Ave., LaCroft, was fined $5 and costs after pleading guilty to a charge of crashing a traffic light at Pennsylvania and Dewey Aves. Thursday.

John R. Rogers of Cleveland forfeited $32.50 on a charge of speeding 55 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone on E. 3rd St. He was cited by the patrol at 3 a. m. Sunday.

A hearing is scheduled Wednesday for Donald A. Gallagher of Pittsburgh on a charge of speeding 75 in a 60-mile zone. He was cited by the patrol Sunday afternoon on Routes 30 and 7.

Beloit Man Selected Jaycee 'Ohio Farmer'

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Roger A. Martig of Beloit was named the state's outstanding Young Farmer of 1965 Saturday night by the Ohio Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The 33-year-old Mahoning County dairy farmer will represent Ohio April 3-5 in the competition for the Jaycee's national farmer's award. He has a 600-acre farm.

Fall Into Pipe Injures Child

A 9-year-old East End youngster was in "satisfactory" condition today at City Hospital with injuries received when he became wedged in a sewer pipe while playing near the American Vitrified Products Co. plant on Virginia Ave. Sunday afternoon.

Michael Dean Stowers, son of Dean Stowers, 532 1st Ave., suffered a fractured right leg when he became wedged in the upright pipe while walking on the pipe outside the fenced-in property, police said.

The boy was freed by city firemen and taken to the hospital by Patrolman W. F. Copestick.

The youngster told Patrolman Copestick that he and others were playing "Combat" when he fell down into the pipe. He yelled for the others to help and they ran to the home of Mrs. Roy Holtzman, 107 Boyce St., who telephoned police.

Young Stowers was playing with his brother, Randy, and Randy Newlin, also of 1st Ave., police said.

Negro Named For Federal Reserve Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—A middle-of-the-road economist nominated for a seat on the Federal Reserve Board said today he will steer clear of what he termed the "great debate" on the nation's monetary policy.

Andrew J. Brimmer, now assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs, was asked in an interview if he had taken a position on the issue of "tight", or "easy money."

"No, and I don't intend to — certainly not at this point," replied the 39-year-old former college professor.

President Johnson named Brimmer, a Negro, to a 14-year term on the seven-member board Saturday. If confirmed by the Senate, he will succeed C. Canaby Balderston, whose term has expired, and will be the first Negro to serve on the board.

Johnson criticized the board in December when it voted 4 to 3, with Balderston in the majority, to increase from 4 to 4½ per cent the discount rate banks pay the Federal Reserve when they borrow money.

This had the effect of pushing up the rate the individual borrower pays for credit.

In announcing the nomination, Johnson described Brimmer as a "man of moderation." Newsmen promptly placed the middle-of-the-road tag on Brimmer, and he doesn't object.

"I agree with that," Brimmer said. "I don't consider that a bad thing."

Brimmer turned aside other questions on the "tight money" issue, saying it would be inappropriate for him to "get into the affairs of the board."

"I want to look at the issues in a clear-headed manner as possible," he said.

William McChesney Martin, Federal Reserve chairman who supported the discount rate increase, reportedly had expressed hope that Johnson would select a member of the business community to succeed Balderston.

But Martin hailed Brimmer's "very commendable record" as a member of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in 1955-58.

The bulk of Brimmer's economic experience has been in the academic field. He obtained bachelor's and master's degrees at the University of Washington, a doctorate at Harvard, spent a year in India under a Fulbright scholarship and taught at the University of Washington, Harvard, College of New York, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the University of Pennsylvania.

Brimmer joined the Commerce Department three years ago.

pects against a wall and searched them, but no weapons were found, they said. Patrolmen Brookes and Frontz accompanied by Officer David Mumaw took the men to jail and then returned to the post home to begin a painstaking investigation.

The officers said an assortment of tools were scattered on the floor along with some of the concrete lining from the outer door. The wedge still was in the inner door, Frontz and Brookes said.

The police said the two men apparently used a pipe wrench to force open a door leading to a storage room behind the bar. After walking out of the bar and up the hallway toward the office, the men apparently used the wrench again to force open the office door, they continued.

After the suspects had been taken to jail, the officers began the task of measuring the room and pinpointing the exact location of each of the tools. They also picked up small quantities of dirt and cement lining for use as evidence.

The tools found in the office included a small sledge hammer, a wedge, a couple of chisels, an electric drill, an extension cord, crowbar, pliers, screwdriver, an offset drift bit and flashlight, along with a can of penetrating oil and a satchel to carry the tools.

The suspects apparently worked by flashlight since the power in the building had been turned off at the main switch, police said.

Police chief Americo Radeschi, who went to the post home this morning, praised the officers for their efficient work and Pollock for his alertness in summoning police.

"I wish more residents would call us when they see or hear something suspicious. We could apprehend more burglars," he said.

The chief pointed out Pollock might have been injured and the thieves probably would have escaped if he had entered the building before notifying the department.

Rally Hears Sukarno Vow Leftist Turn

SINGAPORE (AP) — President Sukarno told a student rally in Jakarta today that Indonesia's course "will soon return to its original leftist track," Radio Jakarta reported.

Sukarno, who last week ousted Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution as defense minister, warned that anyone who opposed him would be crushed, the broadcast said.

A report from Manila said Nasution was in hiding but Radio Jakarta said he has declared his support of Sukarno.

Nasution, considered a rival of Sukarno for control of Indonesia, was ousted in a Cabinet shakeup last Monday. He had led the army purge of Communists after the attempted coup Oct. 1.

Wherever the anti-Communist Nasution is, reliable sources in Singapore said the armed forces loyal to him have not given in to Sukarno.

These sources predicted the armed forces would move, probably some time this week, not against Sukarno himself but to arrest First Deputy Premier Subandrio, considered pro-Peking.

Singapore sources gave little credence to the Jakarta broadcast saying Nasution now supports Sukarno.

Showdown Seen On Viet, Aid Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate argument over Viet Nam rolls toward a showdown today as administration forces seek to free a pair of embattled bills.

They appear to have the votes to carry both issues — an emergency $414-million foreign aid measure for Viet Nam now pending before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the $4.8-billion Viet Nam military authorization waiting action on the Senate floor.

The senators also may get a chance late today to vote on a proposal to rescind or modify the 1964 Gulf of Tonkin resolution cited by President Johnson as giving him the authority to take any steps necessary to combat Communist aggression in Southeast Asia.

One of the leading critics of the Johnson Viet Nam policies, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., has promised to introduce the proposal in an amendment to the Viet Nam money bill.

If he does, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said he would counterattack with a substitute proposal to reaffirm the resolution. Russell said he has the votes to win.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy tangled further Sunday over a possible future role for the Viet Cong in the South Vietnamese government.

Kennedy, a New York Democrat, suggested again that in order to negotiate a peace in South Viet Nam, the United States "must understand that the Communists . . . might end up in some way or another within the governmental structure of Viet Nam."

Humphrey, who initially attacked Kennedy's proposal as being equivalent to putting "a fox in a chicken coop," said on ABC's television-radio program "Issues and Answers" that his first assessment might have been "a little too genteel.

50 Attracted To 4-H Camp

LISBON — Nearly 50 Columbiana County 4-H'ers studied and camped Saturday and Sunday at Camp Aldersgate on Leesville Lake.

The program centered around the topic, "4-H Citizenship."

Discussing the importance of leadership in the community was Dean Putt, state treasurer of the Future Farmers of America, while Russell Fortney, a U. S. Navy recruiter, spoke to the 4-H'ers on the armed services and the world situation.

Presenting the Sunday morning worship service message was James McBride, superintendent of schools in Columbiana County. Miss Virginia Edgington of Brecksville discussed her work as an International Farm Youth Exchange student in Australia a few years ago.

Also visiting the group were Miss Lillie D'Agostina of Italy, a United High School exchange student, and George Garman and several 4-H'ers from Ashtabula County, providing indoor recreation.

Assisting the group were Robert Lewis, county 4-H agent, and Miss Ann Overturf, extension agent in home economics.

Survey Reveals China Aid Value

WASHINGTON (AP)—An unprecedented study of the 15-year history of the U.S. foreign aid program in Nationalist China reports that the aid probably doubled the country's economic growth rate and lifted its living standards 30 years ahead.

The study was compiled by a team headed by Neil Jacoby, dean of the University of California (at Los Angeles) graduate school of business administration.

The findings indicate that Formosa justifiably is a U.S. aid showpiece, although some criticisms were noted. The Jacoby study said the $1.4-billion job probably could have been done for $200 million less, but also added that "such perfection in human affairs is unattainable."

Officer Cites Man In Crash

Francis W. Fetty, 22, of 843 Sophia St. was arrested on charges of reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident on Carolina Ave., Chester, shortly after midnight Saturday, police reported.

Fetty was driving an eastbound 1957 auto belonging to an unidentified companion, also of East Liverpool, when it struck a 1965 car parked between 5th and 6th Sts. and rented by William J. Kunzler, 39, of East McKeesport.

Although a damage estimate on the parked car was not immediately made available, about $25 damage was reported to the vehicle driven by Fetty.

Fetty posted $55 bond for an appearance next Saturday at 10 a. m. before Mayor Harry Abrams.

Patrolman Audley Campbell investigated.

Officers Catch 3 In Burglary Bid

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — A police stakeout paid off early today with the arrest of three alleged burglars in the Venice Pavilion at nearby Ross.

The cafe has been burglarized three times since the first of the year and for the last two or three weeks the Butler County sheriff's office has stationed deputies in the establishment overnight on weekends.

The three, charged with burglary, were listed as Donald Gray, 18, of Hamilton, a soldier home on leave from Korea; Paul E. Philpot, 21, also of Hamilton, and Tony Glen Wagster, 18, of Springdale.

Paul Fiehrer, operator of the cafe, estimated his burglary losses since the first of the year at about $700.

Showdown Seen On Viet, Aid Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate argument over Viet Nam rolls toward a showdown today as administration forces seek to free a pair of embattled bills.

They appear to have the votes to carry both issues — an emergency $414-million foreign aid measure for Viet Nam now pending before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the $4.8-billion Viet Nam military authorization waiting action on the Senate floor.

The senators also may get a chance late today to vote on a proposal to rescind or modify the 1964 Gulf of Tonkin resolution cited by President Johnson as giving him the authority to take any steps necessary to combat Communist aggression in Southeast Asia.

One of the leading critics of the Johnson Viet Nam policies, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., has promised to introduce the proposal in an amendment to the Viet Nam money bill.

If he does, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said he would counterattack with a substitute proposal to reaffirm the resolution. Russell said he has the votes to win.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy tangled further Sunday over a possible future role for the Viet Cong in the South Vietnamese government.

Kennedy, a New York Democrat, suggested again that in order to negotiate a peace in South Viet Nam, the United States "must understand that the Communists . . . might end up in some way or another within the governmental structure of Viet Nam."

Humphrey, who initially attacked Kennedy's proposal as being equivalent to putting "a fox in a chicken coop," said on ABC's television-radio program "Issues and Answers" that his first assessment might have been "a little too genteel.

50 Attracted To 4-H Camp

LISBON — Nearly 50 Columbiana County 4-H'ers studied and camped Saturday and Sunday at Camp Aldersgate on Leesville Lake.

The program centered around the topic, "4-H Citizenship."

Discussing the importance of leadership in the community was Dean Putt, state treasurer of the Future Farmers of America, while Russell Fortney, a U. S. Navy recruiter, spoke to the 4-H'ers on the armed services and the world situation.

Presenting the Sunday morning worship service message was James McBride, superintendent of schools in Columbiana County. Miss Virginia Edgington of Brecksville discussed her work as an International Farm Youth Exchange student in Australia a few years ago.

Also visiting the group were Miss Lillie D'Agostina of Italy, a United High School exchange student, and George Garman and several 4-H'ers from Ashtabula County, providing indoor recreation.

Assisting the group were Robert Lewis, county 4-H agent, and Miss Ann Overturf, extension agent in home economics.

Survey Reveals China Aid Value

WASHINGTON (AP)—An unprecedented study of the 15-year history of the U.S. foreign aid program in Nationalist China reports that the aid probably doubled the country's economic growth rate and lifted its living standards 30 years ahead.

The study was compiled by a team headed by Neil Jacoby, dean of the University of California (at Los Angeles) graduate school of business administration.

The findings indicate that Formosa justifiably is a U.S. aid showpiece, although some criticisms were noted. The Jacoby study said the $1.4-billion job probably could have been done for $200 million less, but also added that "such perfection in human affairs is unattainable."

Awards Given To Cub Scouts During Hookstown Banquet

Various awards were presented at the annual Blue and Gold Dinner of Hookstown Cub Scout Pack 496 Friday night at the Mill Creek Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Alexander C. Wilson, minister of the Mill Creek church, gave the invocation. A coverdish dinner was served by Girl Scouts, headed by Mrs. Gladys Heizler. "Fun" songs were led by Mrs. George Caler, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Bea Vespazani.

Wilson, as head of the sponsoring institution, Jim Anderson, scoutmaster, and Robert Boone, neighborhood commissioner. Jim Laughlin, secretary of the committee, and his wife, Donna, also were among the special guests.

Several merit awards in cubbing were given and advancements also were recognized. George Caler, the pack's advancement chairman, made the awards.

The highlight of the program was the presentation of the awards for the January Pinewood Derby. The award for the best - looking car was a tie, so identical loving cups were presented to Jerry Early and David Staley.

Awards for the races went to: Gary Early, first place, and Jimmy Kinder, second.

Edward Pontis, cubmaster, made a few brief announcements and the program closed with the assembly singing "God Bless America."

2 Firms Warned In West Virginia

CHARLESTON (AP)—Two West Virginia firms have been warned by the National Labor Relations Board to stop blocking their employes' efforts to organize under a labor union.

The NLRB order went out against Arlan's department stores and Restaurant Forum, Inc., with offices in Charleston and Parkersburg.

The order was issued following a hearing on a complaint filed by the Retail Clerks Union, AFL-CIO.

The NLRB also told both firms to bargain collectively with the union, if that is requested.

Couple Loses 9th Child To Strange Series Of Deaths

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Arthur T. Noe and his wife tried hard to face the future today as they prepared for the funeral of their daughter — their ninth child to die in infancy since 1949.

"I just don't know what we're going to do," said Noe, 44, a warehouseman. "We can't have any more children. It's too late."

His wife, Marie, 41, said they had considered adoption, adding: "But we would have to speak to our pastor about it first. They may not let us have one. On account of so many deaths."

The couple's 14-month-old daughter, Catherine Ellen, died suddenly and mysteriously Friday. A happy child with golden curls, she had lived the longest.

An autopsy was performed but no definite cause of death given. Additional tests are planned.

Catherine had been hospitalized three times with what a blood specialist and a pediatrician tentatively diagnosed as acute anemia. A doctor examined her Feb. 14 and found her to be in apparent good health. She was to have had another medical checkup today.

Of the other Noe children, one was stillborn and the rest lived from a few hours to six months. One death was blamed on a heart ailment and two on bronchial pneumonia. The other were undiagnosed.

Mrs. Noe said of Catherine: "We really thought we were going to make it this time. She looked just as healthy as anyone. A beautiful child."

Press Gathering Set For School Students

HUNTINGTON (AP) — Automation of newspapers and other changes in the news industry will be the prime topics here this weekend when young journalists from 25 high schools attend the annual session of the United High School Press.

Some 300 students and journalism teachers are expected for the two-day affair, starting Friday at Marshall University.

An associated professor of journalism at Marshall, William E. Francois, will review technological changes in the newspaper industry at a luncheon Saturday.

Police Could Stand Lessons By Sherlock

NEW YORK (AP) — Some New York cops could stand a few lessons from Sherlock Holmes.

Fifteen of them recently were invited to watch a new movie, "Ten Little Indians," based on the Agatha Christie mystery classic, and to try to guess who the murderer is. They marked their guesses on a card during a 60-second "whodunit break" just before the movie's climax.

The results: with two suspects to choose from as the murderer, eight of the cops guessed wrong.

Woman Held In Death Of Pennsylvania Man

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — A Washington woman was in jail today, charged with murder in the shooting of a man.

Thomas E. Smith, 47, was shot to death in his Washington home early Saturday, and police arrested Mrs. Martha Jones, 47, in the shooting.

Police quoted her as saying she shot Jones during an argument. She said he had pulled a gun on her.

Architect Can Aid Ambitious Plan

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Impulsive handymen are likely to get rambunctious come spring and that first crocus. By golly, they are going to make a winter dream or two come true.

And those dreams are ambitious. It could take a housewrecking crew, because what the do-it-yourselfer would like to do is reconstruct his castle. Everywhere he may see room for improvement — terrace, deck, patio, remove porch, build porch, remove dining room, build new nursery.

One can put oneself back by going forward so fast. If the handyman is artistic and can visualize results of these improvements, there is no problem. When he thinks about removing a porch, he should be able to visualize his plans for a new facade.

A PLAN should be made before anything is done. One way is to make sketches, but these must be accurate, realistic sketches. Another way is to use large prints of photographs of the house as a guide. Draw or paint the new look on it. If the plan is to develop that look in easy stages, use several photographs with each stage depicted.

An architect is the answer for people with very ambitious plans. But many people shy away from architects because they feel the fee will break the bank.

Actually, a good architect can save you money. He is well worth his fee if you have long-range plans. And the way to find a good architect is to observe a job that he has done. It doesn't cost anything to ask an architect how much he will charge, what he will do for the specified sum and where you can see an example of his work.

Some architects work on an hourly basis. You pay for the time it takes him and his staff to draw up plans. The rest is up to you.

Other architects prefer the percentage fee based on the cost of the project. For that fee, they make a plan,, give advice while the project is under way and see that the plan is carried out properly.

Architects say they prefer this method because some builders, carpenters and do-it-yourselfers have difficulty following architectural plans, and the bad results may reflect on (the architect's) prestige.

The difference between a smooth or a hodgepodge job can be in insignificant things. A great workman may not be an esthete. It takes a trained eye to round off difficult spots.

SOME houses are naturals for remodeling. You can't ruin their lines by putting up a simple addition. But many houses, built at the turn of the century, present problems that must be dealt with by experts.

At the turn of the century, a great era of the haunted house look, homes were built on high foundations. It takes a great deal of imagination to visualize these dwellings without their porches, one reason why so many of these houses are still around in all their gingerbread glory.

These Victorian - style houses are very popular now as is and bring high prices. If one wants to maintain the value of a Victorian - style home, one must think of it as an antique, even if he thinks it is monstrous. Touch it, and you may lower its value.

Little houses dotted the country in the early twenties and these are the easiest to improve because there isn't much to harm.

Porches may be ripped off or enclosed to constitute an improvement. But one must be wary of tampering with the lines of a house that has character like a salt - box style. There are ways to improve these early styles, but it takes an expert to make the decision.

In some instances, outer walls are removed and the house is made larger, but sometimes it is less expensive to add a wing. If done by an experienced planner, the addition may be a more satisfactory solution.

Action Taken On Moisture

By DOUGLAS TOUMEY

Ever since the appearance of the split - level house, in which much of the available room area is below grade, coupled with the general use of basements and cellars for playrooms, there has been a great but unfilled demand for a wall covering which would resist moisture.

Not only does the moisture which penetrates the average basement wall play havoc with paint and other decorations, but there is also the problem of condensation which deposits beads of water on most below-grade walls.

A new wall covering made of light - weight, durable, plastic vinyl has been tried out with excellent results. This material is available in many attractive and appropriate designs and colors.

The surface of the panels is raised, so that a true three-dimensional effect is offered, and the designs which simulate brick, driftwood and other patterns are so well done that it is difficult to tell whether or not the wall is actually brick or not. A wall sheathed in bamboo makes a most unusual and effective impression.

From the practical standpoint, these coverings leave little to be desired by the home owner who is contemplating a wall decorating project.

To begin with, the material can be cut with scissors and fitted perfectly. It will stay on even a damp wall when attached with the special cement recommended. The raised pattern means that there are air spaces behind the panels, which are most desirable where damp conditions exist. The material itself is fire resistant, waterproof, washable and can also be painted.

The use of this new material is by no means confined to below - grade rooms, but is equally satisfactory on any type of wall - sheetrock, plaster, concrete, brick or wood. The contemporary grid design is most desirable for library, den, study or foyer.

Hancock Families Reminded Of Aid Through Loan Plan

Rural Hancock County families desirous of improving their housing may make applications for loans from the Farmers Home Administration, Boyd M. Turner Jr. of Moundsville, agency supervisor, reminded today.

Funds may be used to finance homes, building sites and essential farm service buildings in Hancock, as well as in Brooke, Marshall and Ohio counties, Turner said.

Under the new program, private capital will provide the bulk of the funds, with the FHA making the loans and guaranteeing repayment of principal and interest to the investors.

LEGISLATION implementing the new insured loan program was contained in the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965, which authorizes the FHA to insure loans totaling $300 million each year for families in low or moderate income levels and bearing interest at 5 per cent.

In addition, loans bearing 5¾ percent interest may be insured for families with incomes above the moderate level.

Turner said that loans are available to families living on farms and in rural areas, including communities of 5,500 population, to construct, improve or repair rural homes and related facilities or farm service buildings, or to provide water for farm and household use.

Families needing credit to improve their present housing may use loan funds to add bathrooms, central heating, modern kitchens and other home improvements, as well as to enlarge or remodel farm service buildings and install related facilities, such as yard fences, driveways and sidewalks, the supervisor added.

TURNER SAID a farmer may borrow funds to provide buildings for his own use or for the use of tenants and laborers and a rural resident may use loan funds to buy a previously-occupied house, but a site on which to build his home or to build or repair a home on land he owns.

Insured rural housing loans are made to applicants who are unable to obtain the required credit from other sources, the announcement explained.

Further information on insured rural housing loans may be obtained at the county office of the Farmers Home Administration located in the Federal Office Building at 324 7th St., Moundsville.

Tips Are Offered On Correct Way To Clean Marble

Question: My wife recently bought a second - hand coffee table with a marble top. She paid $17 for it. I told her it can't be real marble at that price, but she insists the man told her it was not an imitation. In any case, the top is very dirty. Before I clean it, I'd like to know how to do it so as not to risk the chance of ruining it. Can you help me?"

Answer: Since this is a second - hand table, there's no way of knowing without a personal inspection whether you have a high quality marble top that was purchased at a bargain or whether it is an inexpensive piece of marble.

But be assured that it is possible to buy marble at almost any price. It comes in many different varieties, many different qualities and many different prices.

As for the cleaning, all you need is a fiber brush and a mild detergent. Using warm water, rub until the dirt is removed. Be sure to rinse thoroughly with clean water to take off all traces of the detergent.

Don't allow it to dry by itself. Instead, using a lintless cloth, wipe the marble until it is completely dry. This process will take care of all ordinary dirt, but if there are stains caused by such liquids as fruit juices, tea, coffee, ink and soft drinks, it may be necessary to wash the surface with ammonia. Here again it is important that a thorough rinsing and drying take place.

Steel Faces Labor Needs

CLEVELAND (AP) — The steel industry plans to "beef up capacity to cope with record demand" being hampered at times by shortages of men, machinery and materials, Steel Magazine reported today.

The shortages "could make it difficult to realize the projected 7.3 per cent sales gain in metalworking this year," the trade publication said.

Steel warned also that "unless capacity and manpower can be significantly boosted, runaway demand could intensify inflation which is already a major concern.

"Businessmen fear that the administration's domestic programs will overheat an economy which is already 'escalated' by heavy spending on all fronts and fanned by Viet Nam requirements," Steel said, adding:

"They also are beginning to see the specter of wartime controls."

The metalworking weekly said that "there is strong upward pressure on price" as "demand threatens to outpace production capacity."

Orders totaling $23.5 billion in durable goods was reached in January, Steel said, "pushing unfilled backlogs to $63.5 billion—$9.2 billion over those a year ago."

With the coming of spring and the "inflationary influences attending the Viet Nam situation," the magazine said that apprehensive steel users are ordering in larger volume and ordering farther ahead.

January tonnage was estimated at 6.4 million net tons, and estimated February's output for 6.7 million net tons and the output for March at 7.3 million.

Last week's ingot production was estimated at 2,595,000 net tons, up slightly from the previous week and equivalent to an annual rate of 1[illegible]4.9 million tons, Steel said.

Lacquer, Shellac Must Be Thinned In Proper Ratio

Question: I must be doing something wrong.

About two years ago, I applied two coats of lacquer to a dining room table from which the previous finish had been removed. I not only had great difficulty spreading the lacquer with a brush, but the finish was uneven and kind of blotchy. Sanding helped only a little.

It was on my mind for some time, so recently I took off the lacquer finish and decided to refinish it with shellac because someone told me it was easier to apply. I got very much the same result as the first time.

The shellac did not go on smoothly. It was like applying molasses. It's not too bad since I sanded it, but I can't understand why I had so much trouble. I usually do a pretty good job when using regular paint.

ANSWER: Not knowing exactly what you did, it is not easy to make a long - distance diagnosis. But the most likely cause of your trouble appears to be a failure to thin the lacquer and the shellac.

While the paint and some finishes can be applied right out of the container, thinning is a necessity with lacquer and shellac. The lacquer must be mixed with lacquer thinner; the shellac with denatured alcohol.

If this is not done, the original finishing material has too much body and produces the kind of result you got. As you said, it spreads like molasses and thus is difficult to make smooth.

The next time you use lacquer or shellac, dilute it 50 per cent with one of the proper thinners. In the case of the table, rub it down thoroughly with denatured alcohol, then try giving it a coat of thinned shellac, letting it dry, sanding lightly and applying a second coat.

Tips Are Offered On Correct Way To Clean Marble

Question: My wife recently bought a second - hand coffee table with a marble top. She paid $17 for it. I told her it can't be real marble at that price, but she insists the man told her it was not an imitation. In any case, the top is very dirty. Before I clean it, I'd like to know how to do it so as not to risk the chance of ruining it. Can you help me?"

Answer: Since this is a second - hand table, there's no way of knowing without a personal inspection whether you have a high quality marble top that was purchased at a bargain or whether it is an inexpensive piece of marble.

But be assured that it is possible to buy marble at almost any price. It comes in many different varieties, many different qualities and many different prices.

As for the cleaning, all you need is a fiber brush and a mild detergent. Using warm water, rub until the dirt is removed. Be sure to rinse thoroughly with clean water to take off all traces of the detergent.

Don't allow it to dry by itself. Instead, using a lintless cloth, wipe the marble until it is completely dry. This process will take care of all ordinary dirt, but if there are stains caused by such liquids as fruit juices, tea, coffee, ink and soft drinks, it may be necessary to wash the surface with ammonia. Here again it is important that a thorough rinsing and drying take place.

Steel Faces Labor Needs

CLEVELAND (AP) — The steel industry plans to "beef up capacity to cope with record demand" being hampered at times by shortages of men, machinery and materials, Steel Magazine reported today.

The shortages "could make it difficult to realize the projected 7.3 per cent sales gain in metalworking this year," the trade publication said.

Steel warned also that "unless capacity and manpower can be significantly boosted, runaway demand could intensify inflation which is already a major concern.

"Businessmen fear that the administration's domestic programs will overheat an economy which is already 'escalated' by heavy spending on all fronts and fanned by Viet Nam requirements," Steel said, adding:

"They also are beginning to see the specter of wartime controls."

The metalworking weekly said that "there is strong upward pressure on price" as "demand threatens to outpace production capacity."

Orders totaling $23.5 billion in durable goods was reached in January, Steel said, "pushing unfilled backlogs to $63.5 billion—$9.2 billion over those a year ago."

With the coming of spring and the "inflationary influences attending the Viet Nam situation," the magazine said that apprehensive steel users are ordering in larger volume and ordering farther ahead.

January tonnage was estimated at 6.4 million net tons, and estimated February's output for 6.7 million net tons and the output for March at 7.3 million.

Last week's ingot production was estimated at 2,595,000 net tons, up slightly from the previous week and equivalent to an annual rate of 134.9 million tons, Steel said.

Lacquer, Shellac Must Be Thinned In Proper Ratio

Question: I must be doing something wrong.

About two years ago, I applied two coats of lacquer to a dining room table from which the previous finish had been removed. I not only had great difficulty spreading the lacquer with a brush, but the finish was uneven and kind of blotchy. Sanding helped only a little.

It was on my mind for some time, so recently I took off the lacquer finish and decided to refinish it with shellac because someone told me it was easier to apply. I got very much the same result as the first time. The shellac did not go on smoothly. It was like applying molasses. It's not too bad since I sanded it, but I can't understand why I had so much trouble. I usually do a pretty good job when using regular paint.

ANSWER: Not knowing exactly what you did, it is not easy to make a long - distance diagnosis. But the most likely cause of your trouble appears to be a failure to thin the lacquer and the shellac.

While the paint and some finishes can be applied right out of the container, thinning is a necessity with lacquer and shellac. The lacquer must be mixed with lacquer thinner; the shellac with denatured alcohol.

If this is not done, the original finishing material has too much body and produces the kind of result you got. As you said, it spreads like molasses and thus is difficult to make smooth.

The next time you use lacquer or shellac, dilute it 50 per cent with one of the proper thinners. In the case of the table, rub it down thoroughly with denatured alcohol, then try giving it a coat of thinned shellac, letting it dry, sanding lightly and applying a second coat.

Chester Sewage Treatment Plant Swings Into Full-Scale Operation

The plant is located in City Park in the 4th St. area bordering the Ohio River.

All main sewers in the city lead to a lift station pump which transmits sewage to a degritting machine which draws out sand and gravel. The gritty material is removed daily and hauled away in a wheelbarrow.

THREE auxiliary lift stations have been constructed in sections of the community on a level below the effective limits of drainage lines operating on the gravity principle.

Next comes a grinding operation. Aeration and chlorination then follow.

The plant is capable of handling twice its present capacity, should future expansion be necessary, Kenneth Williams, operator, explained.

Before the new plant was placed in operation, raw sewage was dumped into the river at six different points through trunk lines.

THE TOTAL cost of the new project was approximately $457,000, including a federal grant of $113,000.

Members of the board include Harry Abrams, mayor; Roy C. Cashdollar, city clerk; Richard W. Lee, Charles M. Kology, Walter W. McSwegin, Russell W. Davis, Donald L. Hissam, and Jack L. Allison.

The engineering firm in charge was Cerrone & Vaughn, Inc., of Wheeling.

James A. Jordan and Edwin F. Flowers handled legal matters relating to the project.

Crashes Kill 18 Over Ohio On Weekend

By The Associated Press

Four double-fatality auto crashes Sunday in the wake of a crash in Akron that killed three persons Saturday night figured heavily in another severe weekend traffic toll in Ohio.

There were at least 18 deaths in the 54 hours between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday.

Police attributed the Akron tragedy—a four-car pileup—to an apparent drag race between two convertibles full of teenagers.

Margaret Dowey and Linda Seigman, both 16, perished riding with youthful male drivers and killed also was John Whitman, 75, whose car was hit by one of the convertibles.

Sunday's chain of double-fatality accidents involved a car that wrecked near Canton, an auto struck by a freight train near Wauseon, a sports car that hit a utility pole in Cleveland, and two cars that crashed head-on in front of Hamilton's municipal electric building.

Killed in addition to the Akron group were:

Sunday

Charles Sebeck, 20, and Daniel Moccia, 18, both of Canton, when their car wrecked near Canton.

Richard Leopold and David Barnes, both 19 and of Cleveland, when their sports car hit a utility pole in Cleveland.

Lawrence Clark, 38, and Kathleen Verity, 22, both of Wauseon, when a freight train struck their car near Wauseon.

Robert L. Goode, 20, New Miami, and Will Jackson, 82, Hamilton, when Goode's auto collided head-on in Hamilton with the car driven by Mrs. Mildred Woods of Hamilton in which Jackson was a passenger.

Robert E. Bell, 30, Akron, when his tractor-trailer truck crashed off U. S. 20A in Williams County.

Cora Sue Weaver, 19, Rt. 2 Baltimore, in a two-car collision in Fairfield County.

Kelly Butcher, 6 - month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. French N. Butcher Jr., Ravenna, when a car came unhooked from a tow truck north of Ravenna and collided with the Butcher car.

Saturday

Glenn Gatrell, 72, St. Marys, W. Va., in a two-car crash in Washington County.

John Ridenour, 56, Willowick, when a train struck his car at a Willowick crossing.

Friday Night

Mrs. Pauline Hevatter, Akron, when a tractor-trailer overturned on her car in Portage County.

Henry Atkins, 43, Dayton, when a freight train struck his car at a Dayton crossing.

Changing Woes Fade In Double-Duty Doors

The seasoned and experienced householder can be expected to have a series of labor - saving, heat-saving, comfort-producing equipment around his establishment.

He will have sharp knives in the house and sharp tools for the garden and grounds, hand tools of a good standard make on his work bench and good paint brushes which were cleaned after he last used them.

He will have no gadgets or crackpot inventions. And it is impossible to sell him anything made of thin, stamped metal when it should be a solid casting. He is entirely a practical man, too busy to waste his time in labor that could be avoided.

As a matter of course, his house will have a complete set of storm - sash and one of screens, all properly marked so that they can be put up in a jiffy and without any fitting to see which screen belongs on which window. But as a rule, he will not have screened doors and storm doors both; he will have double - duty doors instead.

This type of door is a heavy exterior door with panels of wood below and a full open panel above. There are two insets for the open panel, one of glass for the winter season and the other screened for the summer. These set in the opening and are secured in place by wing-nuts or other means of fastening.

There is no necessity of unscrewing hinges and taking down one door to replace it with another. The seasonal change is made in about three minutes instead of a half - hour, and at the same time all the advantages of two doors are available.

It should be noted that the cost of such a door generally is no more than that of a good storm door and a sturdy screened door.

More Tips Are Offered On Changing Washers

"I'm not very crazy about being called to a house merely to replace a faucet washer," a plumber told us recently.

"Although the actual replacement doesn't take long, I am forced to charge several dollars. My price usually gets me a dirty look, because most people simply don't take into account that I must charge for traveling time on such a small job."

It may be that, before very many years have passed, neither the plumber nor the householder will have to worry about a leaking faucet caused by a worn washer. A number of items now on the market are designed to halt faucet leaks by doing away with the ordinary washer.

ONE OF these calls for placing a tiny plastic cup in the washer seat, instead of the washer, and holding it there securely with what is called a split rivet. A rubber disc then is forced into the plastic cup. The manufacturer says it will assure a long-lasting seal.

A major development in this area is the single control fitting, which permits users to adjust water temperature and volume simultaneously with one hand. Single control faucets do not use washers.

But while there are millions of regular compression faucets still around, washers will have to be changed, and it's a good idea to know how to change them.

Before anything is done, the water must be turned off, either at a shutoff valve under the sink or at the main valve in the house.

In loosening the nut directly under the faucet handle with a wrench, place some adhesive tape around that part of the fitting to keep it from being damaged.

Keep turning the handle as though you were turning on the water until the stem becomes loose, after which it can be easily removed. At the bottom of the stem or spindle you will find a washer, held in place by a screw.

REMOVE the screw, take off the old washer, which probably is rather battered, and put a new washer of the same size in place.

You can buy a washer of the specific size you need, or you can get an inexpensive box of assorted washers. When making the replacement, you might as well install a new screw.

Sometimes the head of the screw is so worn that the screwdriver blade won't fit in the slot. In that case, gasp the head of the screw with a pliers and turn in counterclockwise.

Should you need an entire faucet spindle, you will find that most hardware stores carry a variety of them. But take the old one to the store with you to be sure you get a proper match. While you're doing it, be certain that no one else in the family turns on the water — otherwise you'll have a lot more trouble than a worn washer.

Some 300 million pairs of the new-process permanently pressed slacks were sold in this country last year.

Pittsburgh Won't Hold Title Fight

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Pittsburgh is out of the running for the Cassius Clay-Ernie Terrell fight, and Chicago is likely to be after today.

But not Bangor, Maine.

The State of Maine, host to the highly controversial, loudly disputed and generally derided second fight between Clay and Sonny Liston, made a bid for Clay-Terrell Sunday night, a bid that depends on the action of the Illinois Athletic Commission.

The Illinois commission was scheduled to resume its hearings today on whether to allow the fight to go on. Most observers feel there is little chance the commission will give it the go-ahead.

And a Pittsburgh promoter withdrew an offer to stage the bout if it's kicked out of Illinois.

But a spokesman for Sam Michael, co-promoter of the Clay-Liston fight in Lewiston, Maine, said Sunday night that efforts are being made to get the fight staged in Bangor.

The announcement was made by Joseph L. Michael, brother and business associate of the promoter.

The Illinois Commission recessed its hearing Friday when Clay, who had been expected to apologize for making "unpatriotic remarks," turned the meeting into a shouting match with Commissioner Joe Robichaux.

Robichaux kept addressing Clay as Cassius Clay and the generally accepted heavyweight champion kept interrupting and insisting Robichaux address him by his Black Muslim name of Muhemmad Ali.

Shortly after the recess, Atty. Gen. William G. Clark of Illinois called a press conference and revealed that the license issued to the promoters for the March 29 bout in the International Amphitheatre was not legal.

Clark pointed to Section 12 of the Illinois Sports Act and said that under the law a corporation promoting a fight must have the names of at least 50 individuals. The license issued for the fight listed only two names.

And to further complicate matters, Clark said he doubted if the licenses issued to Clay and Terrell were legal under section 23 of the same act which deals with conduct detrimental to boxing.

The furor all began less than two weeks ago when Clay's Louisville draft board reclassified him from 1-Y to 1-A.

The volatile Clay made a string of remarks over his reclassification which Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner termed "unpatriotic" and "disgusting" and asked the commission to reconsider the issuance of Illinois licenses to the fighters.

Bill Carter poured in 18 points, while Rex Campbell followed with 17 and Phil Snyder 16 to give the Potters a solid scoring punch.

Win Berths Saturday

Kentucky, Davidson Joined By Cincy, Miami In NCAA

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Louie Dampier, at only 6 feet almost a basketball oddity, is a prime reason why unbeaten Kentucky is headed for its 15th appearance in the NCAA tournament and a chance for an unprecedented fifth championship.

He scored 29 points Saturday night as the top-ranked Wildcats defeated Tennessee 78-64 for their 23rd victory and clinched at least a tie for the Southeastern Conference crown. He and Pat Riley, both juniors, lead Kentucky in scoring, each averaging about 21½ points a game.

Moving into the NCAA with Kentucky following Saturday's games were Davidson, Cincinnati and Miami of Ohio.

Cincinnati clinched the Missouri Valley crown by trimming Drake 56-49 and Miami grabbed the Mid-American Conference crown with a 79-72 triumph over Toledo.

Duke's second-ranked Blue Devils ended their regular season with a 77-63 victory over North Carolina. Now they get set for the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, which they must win in order to get to the NCAA. Their first game is against Wake Forest Thursday.

Kansas, No. 6, took a half-game lead in the Big Eight by handing Nebraska, No. 8, its first league loss 110-72, while 10th-ranked Michigan held onto a one-game margin in the Big Ten, crushing Purdue 105-85.

Utah clinched a tie for the Western Athletic Conference title with a 97-85 triumph over New Mexico. Southern Methodist pulled into a first-place tie with Texas A&M in the Southwest Conference by edging Texas 71-69.

Oregon State retained a 1½-game lead in the Pacific Athletic Conference with a 54-47 victory over Washington State while the University of Pacific snapped San Francisco's 34-game home - court winning streak 82-71 and grabbed a one-game lead over the Dons in the West Coast Athletic Conference.

Penn missed a chance at putting away the Ivy League crown, losing at Cornell 81-76.

Among the independents, seventh-ranked St. Joseph's, Pa., walloped Xavier of Ohio 101-83, ninth - ranked Providence downed Holy Cross 81-72, St. John's edged Marquette 70-68, Houston trampled Portland 109-84, Army stopped Navy 70-56 and Dayton nipped De Paul 76-73.

Smith Scores 35; Bellaire Bows By 76-57

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

The East Liverpool Potters wrote one of their finest endings to a basketball season by finishing with a spectacular six-game winning streak, climaxed Saturday night by a 76-57 victory over Bellaire before some 1,200 fans at Memorial Auditorium.

Vern Smith, a 6-2 junior who has all the good moves around a basketball court and currently owns the hottest shooting hand in the Ohio Valley, turned in a 35-point performance for his fourth consecutive high-scoring effort.

Before the Potters opened a six - game home stand, they were a losing team with a 4-8 record. Since then Coach Frank Chan has steered the Blue and White to a 10-8 mark.

THE WHIRLWIND finish will stamp East Liverpool as a definite threat in the Sectional tournament which opens Tuesday night with three games at the Community Arena in Steubenville.

East Liverpool will launch tournament play against a dangerous Wellsville club in a game that will get under way about 9:30. Steubenville Big Red and Steubenville Central will open the tourney at 6:30 with Toronto and Jefferson Union battling in the middle game at 8.

Smith, who wound up as the Potters No. 1 scorer with 352 points for the season, has been averaging 33 in his last four games.

HE TOOK 26 shots and hit on 15 Saturday night before leaving the game with 3:33 remaining when he suffered an ankle injury which was not listed as serious. Smith will be ready to start in the tournament opener Tuesday, Chan said.

Following Saturday's battle, Chan heaped praise on his team. "I feel this team met a great challenge. We had to come back a long way to have a winning season. I feel the team did a good job after being down so far earlier in the season," Chan said.

There were two big turning points in the final victory.

THE FIRST came early in the second period. East Liverpool was trailing at the time, 22-20, but then waxed red hot to score 13 consecutive points.

Chuck Winters, who turned in another outstanding game in his final appearance at Memorial Auditorium, and Smith led the 13-point spurt.

Winters scored two straight goals to put the Potters in front for good at 24-22. Denny Smith followed with his only field goal of the game then Vern hit followed by a three - point play that sent the margin to 31-22. Winters closed the streak with another goal.

—:—

MIKE COOPER'S basket broke the consecutive point string by the Potters, but Bellaire never came closer than seven points.

It was near the end of the rally that Bellaire Coach Clair Cribbs, a former All-American cager at Pitt, ordered his team to slow things down with some stalling tactics.

Bellaire held the ball for several minutes, but the strategy failed to untrack the Potters.

In the third period, Bellaire made its most determined bid. The Big Red came within seven points with 2:33 left to play after a field goal by Kigerl brought them to 49-42.

—:—

ENTERING the fourth quarter, the Potters, who held a nine - point lead, 55-46, delivered their second knockout punch with 11 consecutive points, which saw Vern Smith get six, Earl Diddle two and sophomore Mitchell Jones turn in a three-point play.

When the Potters finished their spurt, Bellaire was trailing, 70-47.

Winters, who carried the Potters through the first half of the season with his scoring, wound up as No. 2 point-maker on the team. His 22-point effort in his final Memorial Auditorium appearance gave his 315 points for the season. He hit on nine of 18 shots.

Smith and Winters were the only Potter starters in double figures. Jim Jones, the only other senior on the team, finished with eight.

CHAN praised the work of Mitchell Jones, the 6-5 sophomore, who didn't enter the game until late, but proved a tiger on the backboards with 11 rebounds in his short stint. He tied Vern Smith for rebounding honors. Jim Jones pulled down 10 and Winters grabbed eight.

Earl Diddle, another sophomore, in his first starting assignment came back in the second half and thrilled the crowd again with some clever passing.

DENNY SMITH, 5-10 junior who did not start the contest, seemed to be a steadying influence when he entered the game in the second period.

Another big turning point of the game came on defense, where the Potters limited high-scoring Mike Sherwood to only seven points.

Sherwood, a 5-11 senior, who was the second leading scorer in the valley, entered the game

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Louie Dampier, at only 6 feet almost a basketball oddity, is a prime reason why unbeaten Kentucky is headed for its 15th appearance in the NCAA tournament and a chance for an unprecedented fifth championship.

He scored 29 points Saturday night as the top-ranked Wildcats defeated Tennessee 78-64 for their 23rd victory and clinched at least a tie for the Southeastern Conference crown. He and Pat Riley, both juniors, lead Kentucky in scoring, each averaging about 21½ points a game.

Moving into the NCAA with Kentucky following Saturday's games were Davidson, Cincinnati and Miami of Ohio.

Davidson won its first Southern Conference title, defeating West Virginia in the tournament final 80-69 behind Dick Snyder's 27 points.

Cincinnati clinched the Missouri Valley crown by trimming Drake 56-49 and Miami grabbed the Mid-American Conference crown with a 79-72 triumph over Toledo.

Duke's second-ranked Blue Devils ended their regular season with a 77-63 victory over North Carolina. Now they get set for the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, which they must win in order to get to the NCAA. Their first game is against Wake Forest Thursday.

Kansas, No. 6, took a half-game lead in the Big Eight by handing Nebraska, No. 8, its first league loss 110-72, while 10th-ranked Michigan held onto a one-game margin in the Big Ten, crushing Purdue 105-85.

Utah clinched a tie for the Western Athletic Conference title with a 97-85 triumph over New Mexico. Southern Methodist pulled into a first-place tie with Texas A&M in the Southwest Conference by edging Texas 71-69.

Oregon State retained a 1½-game lead in the Pacific Athletic Conference with a 54-47 victory over Washington State while the University of Pacific snapped San Francisco's 34-game home - court winning streak 82-71 and grabbed a one-game lead over the Dons in the West Coast Athletic Conference.

Penn missed a chance at putting away the Ivy League crown, losing at Cornell 81-76.

Among the independents, seventh-ranked St. Joseph's, Pa., walloped Xavier of Ohio 101-83, ninth - ranked Providence downed Holy Cross 81-72, St. John's edged Marquette 70-68, Houston trampled Portland 109-84, Army stopped Navy 70-56 and Dayton nipped De Paul 76-73.

Smith Scores 35; Bellaire Bows By 76-57

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

The East Liverpool Potters wrote one of their finest endings to a basketball season by finishing with a spectacular six-game winning streak, climaxed Saturday night by a 76-57 victory over Bellaire before some 1,200 fans at Memorial Auditorium.

Vern Smith, a 6-2 junior who has all the good moves around a basketball court and currently owns the hottest shooting hand in the Ohio Valley, turned in a 35-point performance for his fourth consecutive high-scoring effort.

Before the Potters opened a six - game home stand, they were a losing team with a 4-8 record. Since then Coach Frank Chan has steered the Blue and White to a 10-8 mark.

—:—

THE WHIRLWIND finish will stamp East Liverpool as a definite threat in the Sectional tournament which opens Tuesday night with three games at the Community Arena in Steubenville.

East Liverpool will launch tournament play against a dangerous Wellsville club in a game that will get under way about 9:30. Steubenville Big Red and Steubenville Central will open the tourney at 6:30 with Toronto and Jefferson Union battling in the middle game at 8.

Smith, who wound up as the Potters No. 1 scorer with 352 points for the season, has been averaging 33 in his last four games.

HE TOOK 26 shots and hit on 15 Saturday night before leaving the game with 3:33 remaining when he suffered an ankle injury which was not listed as serious. Smith will be ready to start in the tournament opener Tuesday, Chan said.

Following Saturday's battle, Chan heaped praise on his team. "I feel this team met a great challenge. We had to come back a long way to have a winning season. I feel the team did a good job after being down so far earlier in the season." Chan said.

There were two big turning points in the final victory.

THE FIRST came early in the second period. East Liverpool was trailing at the time, 22-20, but then waxed red hot to score 13 consecutive points.

Chuck Winters, who turned in another outstanding game in his final appearance at Memorial Auditorium, and Smith led the 13-point spurt.

Winters scored two straight goals to put the Potters in front for good at 24-22. Denny Smith followed with his only field goal of the game then Vern hit followed by a three - point play that sent the margin to 31-22. Winters closed the streak with another goal.

—:—

MIKE COOPER'S basket broke the consecutive point string by the Potters, but Bellaire never came closer than seven points.

It was near the end of the rally that Bellaire Coach Clair Cribbs, a former All-American cager at Pitt, ordered his team to slow things down with some stalling tactics.

Bellaire held the ball for several minutes, but the strategy failed to untrack the Potters.

In the third period, Bellaire made its most determined bid. The Big Red came within seven points with 2:33 left to play after a field goal by Kiger brought them to 49-42.

—:—

ENTERING the fourth quarter, the Potters, who held a nine - point lead, 55-46, delivered their second knockout punch with 11 consecutive points, which saw Vern Smith get six, Earl Diddle two and sophomore Mitchell Jones turn in a three-point play.

When the Potters finished their spurt, Bellaire was trailing, 70-47.

Winters, who carried the Potters through the first half of the season with his scoring, wound up as No. 2 point-maker on the team. His 22-point effort in his final Memorial Auditorium appearance gave his 315 points for the season. He hit on nine of 18 shots.

Smith and Winters were the only Potter starters in double figures. Jim Jones, the only other senior on the team, finished with eight.

CHAN praised the work of Mitchell Jones, the 6-5 sophomore, who didn't enter the game until late, but proved a tiger on the backboards with 11 rebounds in his short stint. He tied Vern Smith for rebounding honors. Jim Jones pulled down 10 and Winters grabbed eight.

Earl Diddle, another sophomore, in his first starting assignment came back in the second half and thrilled the crowd again with some clever passing.

—:—

DENNY SMITH, 5-10 junior who did not start the contest seemed to be a steadying influence when he entered the game in the second period.

Another big turning point of the game came on defense where the Potters limited high scoring Mike Sherwood to only seven points.

Southern Tripped At Foul Line In Tourney Loss To Lowellville

Rally Falls Short In 61-59 Defeat

By JOHN COMO
Review Sports Writer

The Southern Local Indians failed to adjust to the whistle-happy-tooting antics of the referees Saturday night and fell short in a gallant second half rally at Struthers to fall out of tournament action in a 61-59 loss to Lowellville.

In foul trouble throughout the Class A Sectional semi-final at Struthers, the Indians of Coach Al Girone watched frustratingly as the Rockets nullifed their goals with a nearly constant parade to the free throw line.

The Indians outgoaled the victors, 23-16, for a 46-32 edge from the field.

However, at the charity stripe, Southern Local scored on just 13 of 28 attempts, while the Rockets were marking 29 of 43 tosses.

There were 28 infractions called on the losers with four starters leaving the game early.

Lowellville was called for 19 infractions with Bob Coppola leaving with two minutes left to play.

—:—

"THE NUMBER of fouls weren't as bad as the inconsistency in which they were called," Girone said after the contest. "One minute, the referees allowed the boys to climb all over each other without doing anything and the next instant, it seemed all the players needed to do was to breathe on the opponent. I guess my boys breathed the most," he continued.

"The boys did a terrific job in the second half, but couldn't cope with the inconsistent calling of the referees. The second quarter really killed us," Girone said.

SOUTHERN Local entered the second trailing, 13-12, after outgoaling the Rockets 4 to 3, but falling short 7 to 4 at the free throw line.

The Rockets were shooting the one-and-one at the two-minute mark of the first period and had broken, 10-10, and 12-12, ties at the line.

Fouls continued to plague the Indians in the second stanza as Lowellville hit on 9 of 14 and added six goals to gain a 34-22 halftime edge.

—:—

Girone already had two of his top rebounders, Bettis and Hays sitting on the bench with four fouls each and McCord and Goddard were living dangerously with three personals each.

Goddard paced the Indians in the first half with nine markers, but failed to score after the intermission.

Mike McCarthy and George Slaven tallied nine each and Bob Coppola followed with seven to lead the Rockets to the 12-point edge. All of Coppola's marks came at the charity stripe.

—:—

THE Indians pulled within four of the Rockets in the third period as McCord hit for seven points and Hays and Lonnie Fields added four each to cut the margin to 43-39, entering the final stanza.

Southern had trailed by 16 at the 7-minute mark of the third, 38-22, after Nick Nero and Donatelli goaled to open second half action for the Rockets.

Coppola stalled the Indian rally by hitting both ends of a one-and-one foul to open the fourth for a 45-39 Lowellville advantage.

—:—

BETTIS countered the charity tosses with a goal, Fields followed with two free throws and a goal and the Indians pulled even, 45-45, with 6:15 left.

Less than a minute later, however, Southern Local's hopes dimmed as Goddard and Bettis fouled out and the Rockets built a 50-45 lead on free throws by Coppola, McCarthy and Slaven.

—:—

A FREE throw by Jim Falconer narrowed the deficit to, 50-46, but Slaven hit on a jump shot from the corner and Jeff Shiralde marked two free throws for a 54-46 Rocket advantage at the 3:44 mark.

Dwaine McKenzie hit for two goals, McCord marked a goal and two free throws and Fields goaled as the Indians' final surge brought them one-point shy, 58-57, with :56 left.

Slaven scored for Lowellville for a 60-57 margin, but Falconer countered and the Indians trailed, 60-59, with 30 seconds left.

—:—

THE BALL exchanged hands twice and the Indians lost McCord at the six second mark after he fouled Slaven, who missed an opportunity to put the game out of reach.

The Rockets weren't finished plaguing the Indians at the foul line however, as Shiralde was fouled while pulling off a rebound as the buzzer sounded.

With time running out and the victory secured, Shiralde, who killed the Indians drive with nine points on two goals and five free throws in the fourth quarter, hit the first of a one-and-one, but missed the second for the final tally.

—:—

THE VICTORS showed four men in double figures as Slaven tallied 16, Shiralde, 15, and McCarthy and Coppola, 10 each.

McCord hit for 15 an Fields, 14, to lead the Indians as they finished out the season with a 9-11 mark.

The Rockets shot 44 per cent, hitting on 16 of 36 attempts to raise their mark to 13-7.

Southern marked at a 40 per cent clip, hitting on 23 of 57 attempts.

Baltimore KO's Celts By 132-92

By The Associated Press

Five weeks ago the Boston Celtics were Bullet-proof. Today they're an entry on the ballistics report.

The Baltimore Bullets, triggered by Johnny Green and Gus Johnson, leveled Boston with a 40-point third-quarter volley Sunday and blasted the defending National Basketball Association kings 132-92.

The most one-sided loss absorbed by the Celtics in six years trimmed their Eastern Division lead to 1½ games over idle Philadelphia.

St. Louis, sparked by veteran Cliff Hagan, trimmed Detroit 125-114 in the only other game on Sunday's schedule.

Red Auerbach's Celtics, who swept their first six games against Baltimore this season, have been cannon-fodder for the Bullets in the last three—all on the Baltimore court. The Bullets whipped them 132-107 Jan. 22, followed up with a 113-94 decision Feb. 5 and riddled them Sunday in the nationally television game as six players hit for 14 points and up.

with a 26.5 average, but the Potters put up a 1-3-1 zone and harassed the Bellaire star, who got only eight shots away for the night.

Cooper and Kigerl paced Bellair with 10 points each. The big men for the visitors did a fine job on the boards and turned in most of the scoring, but Bellaire could not get consistent outside shooting.

East Liverpool hit 41 per cent on 31 of 76 attempts, while Bellaire shot 37 per cent.

Catholic Title Is Captured By Wheeling Again

HUNTINGTON (AP) — The 1966 state Catholic High School Basketball Tournament is history, and there might be some mumbling: "It's the same old story."

Wheeling Central has won its 21st championship in 30 tournaments. The victory came after Central had put down a fourth-quarter rush by Parkersburg Catholic Sunday to win 52-47 and take the Class AA crown.

Parkersburg had outscored Wheeling in the second half 24-18, held them scoreless for half the third period, and got within one point, 46-45, in the final three minutes.

Daytona 500 Is Captured By Plymouth

By DUKE FERGUSON

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Ford Motor Co., its dominance of stock car racing broken by Richard Petty and his hemi-head Plymouth, may put a new-style engine into production which could revolutionize auto racing in this country.

Petty, of Randleman, N.C., piloted the winner for the Plymouth-Dodge combine that put seven of their hemi-powered cars in the top 10 of Sunday's $140,000 Daytona 500-mile stock car race.

The performance marked a remarkable comeback for Plymouth-Dodge, which re-entered Grand National Stock Car Racing in this first major event of the 1966 season after being banned from the NASCAR circuit in 1965.

During the layoff Ford dominated NASCAR racing, winning 48 of 55 races. And Ford officials, deeply stung by their defeat at Daytona, went into a huddle to plot ways of getting back in the picture.

Reliable sources said it may involve putting their overhead camshaft engine into production, thus making it eligible for NASCAR events.

To qualify, Ford must produce 1,000 engines for a minimum of 90 days.

The development could revolutionize stock car racing, since no major U.S. manufacturer has offered an overhead cam engine for sale to the general public.

In Sunday's race — shortened by two laps when rain spattered the track and 84,000 spectators — Petty fell back to 20th place early in the race becaue of tire problems.

After the difficulties were solved, however, he moved steadily through the 50 entries and, setting records each lap, finished with a one-lap lead and an average speed of 160.817 miles an hour. His purse was $28,150.

Petty's fastest time was 175.817 m.p.h. on the 138th lap.

Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S.C., placed second in a 1966 Ford.

Southern Tripped At Foul Line In Tourney Loss To Lowellville

Rally Falls Short In 61-59 Defeat

By JOHN COMO
Review Sports Writer

The Southern Local Indians failed to adjust to the whistle-happy-tooting antics of the referees Saturday night and fell short in a gallant second half rally at Struthers to fall out of tournament action in a 61-59 loss to Lowellville.

In foul trouble throughout the Class A Sectional semi-final at Struthers, the Indians of Coach Al Girone watched frustratingly as the Rockets nullifed their goals with a nearly constant parade to the free throw line.

The Indians outgoaled the victors, 23-16, for a 46-32 edge from the field.

However, at the charity stripe, Southern Local scored on just 13 of 28 attempts, while the Rockets were marking 29 of 43 tosses.

There were 28 infractions called on the losers with four starters leaving the game early.

Tom Hays was first to exit at the 2:52 mark of the third quarter with Gene Goddard and Chuck Bettis joining him midway through the fourth. John McCord committed his fifth personal with six seconds left.

Lowellville was called for 19 infractions with Bob Coppola leaving with two minutes left to play.

—:—

"THE NUMBER of fouls weren't as bad as the inconsistency in which they were called," Girone said after the contest. "One minute, the referees allowed the boys to climb all over each other without doing anything and the next instant, it seemed all the players needed to do was to breathe on the opponent. I guess my boys breathed the most," he continued.

"The boys did a terrific job in the second half, but couldn't cope with the inconsistent calling of the referees. The second quarter really killed us," Girone said.

SOUTHERN Local entered the second trailing, 13-12, after outgoaling the Rockets 4 to 3, but falling short 7 to 4 at the free throw line.

The Rockets were shooting the one-and-one at the two-minute mark of the first period and had broken, 10-10, and 12-12, ties at the line.

Fouls continued to plague the Indians in the second stanza as Lowellville hit on 9 of 14 and added six goals to gain a 34-22 halftime edge.

—:—

Girone already had two of his top rebounders, Bettis and Hays sitting on the bench with four fouls each and McCord and Goddard were living dangerously with three personals each.

Goddard paced the Indians in the first half with nine markers, but failed to score after the intermission.

Mike McCarthy and George Slaven tallied nine each and Bob Coppola followed with seven to lead the Rockets to the 12-point edge. All of Coppola's marks came at the charity stripe.

—:—

THE Indians pulled within four of the Rockets in the third period as McCord hit for seven points and Hays and Lonnie Fields added four each to cut the margin to 43-39, entering the final stanza.

Southern had trailed by 16 at the 7-minute mark of the third, 38-22, after Nick Nero and Donatelli goaled to open second half action for the Rockets.

Coppola stalled the Indian rally by hitting both ends of a one-and-one foul to open the fourth for a 45-39 Lowellville advantage.

—:—

BETTIS countered the charity tosses with a goal, Fields followed with two free throws and a goal and the Indians pulled even, 45-45, with 6:15 left.

Less than a minute later, however, Southern Local's hopes dimmed as Goddard and Bettis fouled out and the Rockets built a 50-45 lead on free throws by Coppola, McCarthy and Slaven.

—:—

A FREE throw by Jim Falconer narrowed the deficit to, 50-46, but Slaven hit on a jump shot from the corner and Jeff Shiralde marked two free throws for a 54-46 Rocket advantage at the 3:44 mark.

Dwaine McKenzie hit for two goals, McCord marked a goal and two free throws and Fields goaled as the Indians' final surge brought them one - point shy, 58-57, with :56 left.

Slaven scored for Lowellville for a 60-57 margin, but Falconer countered and the Indians trailed, 60-59, with 30 seconds left.

—:—

THE BALL exchanged hands twice and the Indians lost McCord at the six second mark after he fouled Slaven, who missed an opportunity to put the game out of reach.

The Rockets weren't finished plaguing the Indians at the foul line however, as Shiralde was fouled while pulling off a rebound as the buzzer sounded.

With time running out and the victory secured, Shiralde, who killed the Indians drive with nine points on two goals and five free throws in the fourth quarter, hit the first of a one-and-one, but missed the second for the final tally.

—:—

THE VICTORS showed four men in double figures as Slaven tallied 16, Shiralde, 15, and McCarthy and Coppola, 10 each.

McCord hit for 15 an Fields, 14, to lead the Indians as they finished out the season with a 9-11 mark.

The Rockets shot 44 per cent, hitting on 16 of 36 attempts to raise their mark to 13-7.

Southern marked at a 40 per cent clip, hitting on 23 of 57 attempts.

Baltimore KO's Celts By 132-92

By The Associated Press

Five weeks ago the Boston Celtics were Bullet-proof. Today they're an entry on the ballistics report.

The Baltimore Bullets, triggered by Johnny Green and Gus Johnson, leveled Boston with a 40-point third-quarter volley Sunday and blasted the defending National Basketball Association kings 132-92.

The most one-sided loss absorbed by the Celtics in six years trimmed their Eastern Division lead to 1½ games over idle Philadelphia.

St. Louis, sparked by veteran Cliff Hagan, trimmed Detroit 125-114 in the only other game on Sunday's schedule.

Red Auerbach's Celtics, who swept their first six games against Baltimore this season, have been cannon-fodder for the Bullets in the last three—all on the Baltimore court. The Bullets whipped them 132-107 Jan. 22, followed up with a 113-94 decision Feb. 5 and riddled them Sunday in the nationally television game as six players hit for 14 points and up.

Green, who came off the bench in the second quarter to lead a blistering fast break that eventually broke open the game, topped the point parade with 24, one more than Johnson.

with a 26.5 average, but the Potters put up a 1-3-1 zone and harassed the Bellaire star, who got only eight shots away for the night.

Cooper and Kigerl paced Bellair with 10 points each. The big men for the visitors did a fine job on the boards and turned in most of the scoring, but Bellaire could not get consistent outside shooting.

East Liverpool hit 41 per cent on 31 of 76 attempts, while Bellaire shot 37 per cent.

Catholic Title Is Captured By Wheeling Again

HUNTINGTON (AP) — The 1966 state Catholic High School Basketball Tournament is history, and there might be some mumbling: "It's the same old story."

Wheeling Central has won its 21st championship in 30 tournaments. The victory came after Central had put down a fourth-quarter rush by Parkersburg Catholic Sunday to win 52-47 and take the Class AA crown.

Joanne Makes A Rare Appearance

Hal Humphrey

"Miss Joanne Woodward makes one of her rare TV appearances next week when . . ." begins a lyrical press release heralding the Danny Kaye show for Wednesday. Publicity men are inclined to use the word rare if it was only last month that their client was seen on TV. In Miss Woodward's case, however, the word "rare" has considerable credence.

It was in January 1958 that she co-starred with Paul Newman in a Playhouse 90 drama titled "The 80-Yard Run."

-:-

SINCE THEN Miss Woodward has married Newman (later that same month), been in a Broadway play and made several movies, but has not been on TV except for unintentional appearances with her old movies.

Miss Woodward's reason for leaving a medium which might be said to have launched her career is quite simple. She got into movies where the care and feeding of stars is much more carefully planned than in TV.

"I don't like film TV," she says. "It's done off the top of the head, with hardly any rehearsal. In the old 'live' TV days we had five days' rehearsal for an hour show, and we really worked at it.

"The only thing I hated was that countdown the director called off — 30 seconds to air time, 20 seconds, 10 seconds — and when he got there I always wanted to run out the door."

PARADOXICALLY, it was a half - hour film TV drama, a Four-Star Playhouse with Dick Powell, which landed Miss Woodward her first movie contract. Powell broke all precedent and smuggled the film into the office of 20th Century-Fox' studio head, Buddy Adler (now deceased), and Adler liked what he saw and signed her.

"I bought my way out later because they were running short of ideas for me. My last picture at 20th was 'The Stripper,' so I knew the next step would be putting me into one of their TV series or suing me for breach of contract," she explains.

In a second - hand way her fears were confirmed when she saw the TV series 20th made from "Long Hot Summer," the movie in which she and husband Paul Newman co-starred. Nancy Malone and Roy Thinnes are the TV copies.

"I THOUGHT I'd die when I saw the TV thing," says Miss Woodward, with a trace of her Georgia - born accent trickling back into her voice. "You know what they did? They made Roy and Nancy look at our movie six or seven times before they filmed their first TV show."

She has no explanation for the fact she is one of the few actresses from the 1952-1955 "live" drama days of New York TV to become a star in movies, unless it's because she did not stay in TV very long after it transferred to film. Those who did, Miss Woodward believes, were not able to show their acting talent to the best advantage.

Grace Kelly, Eve Marie Saint and Janice Rule started with Miss Woodward in those balmy TV days and made it to the movies, but there were a lot of others who have dropped out of sight now—Maria Riva (Marlene Dietrich's daughter) and Mary Sinclair, to name two.

-:-

"I DON'T WATCH TV any more except the late, late movies, and I won't even watch mine if I can help it because of the way they cut them up," says Miss Woodward.

Her "Three Faces of Eve" is playing TV now.

"That won an Oscar for me, so I have a tender thing about it, and I don't want to see it spoiled with all of those interruptions."

On Wednesday's Danny Kaye show Miss Woodward appears with the host in a series of comedy sketches and says she's "scared stiff" over the prospect.

"How does one know when a sketch is funny? I certainly can't tell from reading it, and I keep thinking to myself, 'But what is the motivation for this?'

"I remember those wonderful things Sid Caesar used to do on his 'Show of Shows'. It was the only time I would stay home to watch TV. I wonder if I should have let myself get talked into this."

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Joanne Makes A Rare Appearance

Hal Humphrey

"Miss Joanne Woodward makes one of her rare TV appearances next week when . . ." begins a lyrical press release heralding the Danny Kaye show for Wednesday. Publicity men are inclined to use the word rare if it was only last month that their client was seen on TV. In Miss Woodward's case, however, the word "rare" has considerable credence.

It was in January 1958 that she co-starred with Paul Newman in a Playhouse 90 drama titled "The 80-Yard Run."

-:-

SINCE THEN Miss Woodward has married Newman (later that same month), been in a Broadway play and made several movies, but has not been on TV except for unintentional appearances with her old movies.

Miss Woodward's reason for leaving a medium which might be said to have launched her career is quite simple. She got into movies where the care and feeding of stars is much more carefully planned than in TV.

"I don't like film TV," she says. "It's done off the top of the head, with hardly any rehearsal. In the old 'live' TV days we had five days' rehearsal for an hour show, and we really worked at it.

"The only thing I hated was that countdown the director called off — 30 seconds to air time, 20 seconds, 10 seconds — and when he got there I always wanted to run out the door."

PARADOXICALLY, it was a half-hour film TV drama, a Four-Star Playhouse with Dick Powell, which landed Miss Woodward her first movie contract. Powell broke all precedent and smuggled the film into the office of 20th Century-Fox' studio head, Buddy Adler (now deceased), and Adler liked what he saw and signed her.

"I bought my way out later because they were running short of ideas for me. My last picture at 20th was 'The Stripper,' so I knew the next step would be putting me into one of their TV series or suing me for breach of contract," she explains.

In a second-hand way her fears were confirmed when she saw the TV series 20th made from "Long Hot Summer," the movie in which she and husband Paul Newman co-starred. Nancy Malone and Roy Thinnes are the TV copies.

"I THOUGHT I'd die when I saw the TV thing," says Miss Woodward, with a trace of her Georgia-born accent trickling back into her voice. "You know what they did? They made Roy and Nancy look at our movie six or seven times before they filmed their first TV show."

She has no explanation for the fact she is one of the few actresses from the 1952-1955 "live" drama days of New York TV to become a star in movies, unless it's because she did not stay in TV very long after it transferred to film. Those who did, Miss Woodward believes, were not able to show their acting talent to the best advantage.

Grace Kelly, Eve Marie Saint and Janice Rule started with Miss Woodward in those balmy TV days and made it to the movies, but there were a lot of others who have dropped out of sight now—Maria Riva (Marlene Dietrich's daughter) and Mary Sinclair, to name two.

-:-

"I DON'T WATCH TV any more except the late, late movies, and I won't even watch mine if I can help it because of the way they cut them up," says Miss Woodward.

Her "Three Faces of Eve" is playing TV now.

"That won an Oscar for me, so I have a tender thing about it, and I don't want to see it spoiled with all of those interruptions."

On Wednesday's Danny Kaye show Miss Woodward appears with the host in a series of comedy sketches and says she's "scared stiff" over the prospect.

"How does one know when a sketch is funny? I certainly can't tell from reading it, and I keep thinking to myself, 'But what is the motivation for this?'

"I remember those wonderful things Sid Caesar used to do on his 'Show of Shows'. It was the only time I would stay home to watch TV. I wonder if I should have let myself get talked into this."

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Feb. 28, the 59th day of 1966. There are 306 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1849, the "California," first of a series of ships carrying eager gold-seekers, arrived in San Francisco.

On this date

In 1749, Henry Fielding's novel, "Tom Jones," was published.

In 1827, a charter was granted for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

In 1844, a gun exploded on the USS Princeton, killing the secretary of state, the secretary of the Navy and three other friends of President John Tyler, who also was aboard.

In 1861, Jefferson Territory, now Colorado, was created by an act of Congress.

In 1942, Japanese forces invaded the island of Java.

Ten years ago—Thirteen persons were killed and 100 injured when a Boston and Maine Railroad streamliner crashed into a stalled commuter train at Swampscott, Mass.

Five years ago — The three major Congo factions established a common bloc against what they called the danger of U.N. trusteeship.

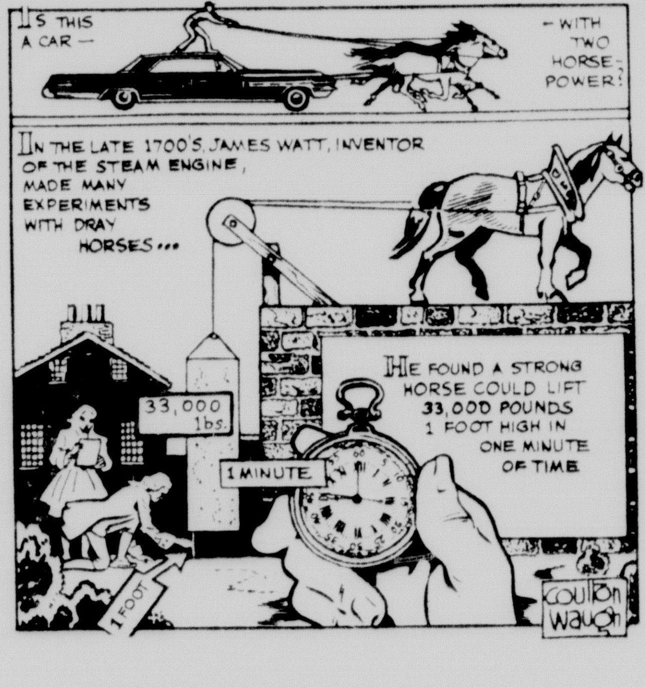
Junior Editors Quiz on HORSEPOWER



IS THIS A CAR —

1 MINUTE

HE FOUND A STRONG HORSE COULD LIFT 33,000 POUNDS 1 FOOT HIGH IN ONE MINUTE OF TIME
COULTON WAUGH

QUESTION: How can a car have horsepower?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Don't take the upper drawing seriously. Our artist was just using his imagination. The main picture shows why it is said that a car has a certain "horsepower." The word is used to tell how much power an engine has. One way to measure this was worked out in the late 1700's by James Watt. Watt wanted some way of measuring how much work an animal or engine might do. He experimented with strong horses to see how much weight they could lift in a certain time. Watt called one pound, raised one foot a foot-pound. He found that a horse could raise 33,000 foot-pounds in one minute. He called the force, such as an engine, may have two or five or many more units of horsepower. In modern cars, pressure on the piston is multiplied by the piston's area, by the length of the piston's stroke and the number of strokes a minute—this gives foot-pounds a minute. Divide this by 33,000 foot-pounds and you have the indicated horsepower. The "S.E.A. Rating" and "brake horsepower" measurement method are also used, giving different results.

FOR YOU TO DO: Find out how much horsepower your family car has.

David Williams of Bellefonte, Pa., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care or The Review.

ANSWER: Don't take the upper drawing seriously. Our artist was just using his imagination. The main picture shows why it is said that a car has a certain "horsepower." The word is used to tell how much power an engine has. One way to measure this was worked out in the late 1700's by James Watt. Watt wanted some way of measuring how much work an animal or engine might do. He experimented with strong horses to see how much weight they could lift in a certain time. Watt called one pound, raised one foot a foot-pound. He found that a horse could raise 33,000 foot-pounds in one minute. He called the force, such as an engine, may have two or five or many more units of horsepower. In modern cars, pressure on the piston is multiplied by the piston's area, by the length of the piston's stroke and the number of strokes a minute—this gives foot-pounds a minute. Divide this by 33,000 foot-pounds and you have the indicated horsepower. The "S.E.A. Rating" and "brake horsepower" measurement method are also used, giving different results.
